

CONTENTS

---

List of Tables, Figures, and Maps	page vi
Preface	ix
List of Abbreviations	xiii
1 The West African Disease Background	1
2 The March to Magdala	29
3 The March to Kumasi	49
4 Tropical Conquest in West Africa	74
5 Typhoid and the Egyptian Garrison	113
6 The Typhoid Campaigns: Northeastern Africa in the 1880s	149
7 Madagascar and Omdurman: The Last Campaigns in Eastern Africa	175
8 The Anglo-Boer War: The Last of the Typhoid Campaigns	202
Retrospect	228
Appendix: Statistical Tables	233
Bibliography	241
Index	249

A picture gallery falls between pages 174 and 175.

TABLES, FIGURES, AND MAPS

---

Tables

Table 1.1. Causes of Death among British and African Troops Serving in the Sierra Leone Command, 1816–37	8
2.1. British Military Mortality on the Magdala Campaign, 1867–68	44
3.1. Morbidity and Mortality on the Gold Coast Campaign, 1874	68
3.2. British Military Mortality in West Africa, 1859–75	70
3.3. Mortality of European Officers in West Africa, 1876–90	71
4.1. Death Rate of European Civilians in Senegal Yellow Fever Epidemics	79
4.2. Disease Mortality of French Troops in Haut-Sénégal-Niger, 1880–92	85
4.3. Senegal and French Sudan – Barracks and Campaign	87
4.4. Campaign Mortality – Dahomey and Gold Coast, 1890–1900	101
4.5. Mortality by Cause of Death of French Troops Serving in Bénin, February to November 1890	103
4.6. Changing Death Rates from Disease for European Soldiers in Senegal, 1852–73, and Bénin, 1890	104
4.7. Mortality Among British Troops in the Asante Campaign of 1895–96	108
4.8. Comparative Mortality of European and Non-European British Troops in West Africa, 1897–1904	109
5.1. European Troops in Algeria, Egypt, India, and Great Britain: Changing Disease Profiles 1890s to 1913	141
5.2. European Troops in Algeria, Egypt, India, and Great Britain: Changing Mortality from Major Diseases 1890s to 1909–13	142

6.1. Cause of Death among French Troops in France and Algeria, 1872–76, and in the Tunisian Campaign of 1881 and the South Oran Campaign of 1881–82	152
6.2. British Military Mortality in Egypt, 1882–83	158
6.3. Hospitalization Rates at British Military Stations, 1876–87	165
6.4. Mortality in Northeast African Campaigns, 1881–86	169
7.1. Disease Mortality of the Madagascar Expedition, 1895	188
7.2. Mortality of European Troops in Madagascar, 1897–1913	191
7.3. Disease Death Rate of European Troops Stationed in Madagascar, 1909–13	192
7.4. Mortality of Malagasy and French Troops by Region in Madagascar, 1901	193
8.1. Typhoid Deaths Among British Soldiers in South Africa, 1818–1913	206
8.2. Comparative Military Mortality of the Nile Campaign of 1898 and the Anglo–Boer War of 1899–1902	218
8.3. Mortality from Disease in South Africa, Comparing Pre-war Peacetime with Campaign Death Rates, by Disease	223
8.4. Mortality in Barracks and on Campaign in the Typhoid Campaigns	224
8.5. Mortality of European Garrisons in Africa, 1884–1913	226

Appendix Tables

Table A1.1. Monthly Malaria Morbidity, Tivaouane Senegal, 1861–62	233
A5.1. The Rise of Typhoid in Great Britain, India, France, and Algeria, 1860–1913	233
A5.2. The Health of British Troops in Egypt, by Station, 1883–1905	234
A5.3. Admissions and Deaths from Typhoid Fever among British Troops Stationed in Lower Egypt, 1883–1913	235
A5.4. British Troops Serving in Lower Egypt: Acclimatization by Length of Service, 1891–95 and 1901–05	236
A5.5. British Troops in Lower Egypt, 1898–1905: Typhoid Admissions and Deaths by Age	237
A5.6. French Troops in France and North Africa: Mortality and Relocation Cost from Typhoid Fever, 1862–1912	237
A8.1. Reynaud’s Retrospect on Mortality Rates of British and French Campaigns in the Tropics	238

A8.2.	British Medical Journal Comparison of England and French Campaigns, 1860–97	239
A8.3.	Monthly Disease Death Rates in Conquest of Africa	240

Figures

Figure 0.1.	Disease Mortality of European Troops Serving Overseas	x
1.1.	Monthly Malaria Morbidity in Tivaouane, Senegal	7
5.1.	The Eighteenth-Century Rise of Typhoid among European Troops at Home and Overseas	120
5.2.	Cairo and Alexandria: Military Deaths from Typhoid Fever, 1888–1905	131
5.3.	British Troops in Lower Egypt: Typhoid Admissions and Deaths, 1883–1913	133
5.4.	Typhoid Deaths as a Percentage of All Deaths, 1883–1913	135
5.5.	Egypt Seasoning 1891–95 and 1901–05	136
5.6.	British Troops in Lower Egypt: Admissions and Death from Typhoid Fever, by Age, 1898–1905	137
5.7.	Typhoid Mortality for European Troops in Algeria/Tunisia and Egypt, 1882–1913	144
5.8.	French Military Mortality from Typhoid in France and in Algeria/Tunisia, 1862–1912	145
5.9 A.	Military Mortality in Britain and India, 1886–1914	146
5.9 B.	Military Mortality in Algeria and Egypt, 1886–1914	147
8.2.	Mortality from Typhoid Fever and Total Mortality from Disease among British Troops Stationed in South Africa and St. Helena	205
8.3.	Reynaud's Retrospect on French and British Colonial Campaigns	220
8.4.	British Medical Journal's Appreciation of Past Campaign Mortality Rates, 1860–1898	221
8.5.	Trends in Monthly Mortality of European Troops on Campaign in Africa, 1823–1902	222

Maps

Map 2.1.	The Arabian Sea and Vicinity	33
4.1.	Senegal and the Upper Algier	77
4.2.	The Gold and Slave Coasts	95
6.1.	Lower Egypt	157
7.1.	Madagascar Malaria, c. 1890	178
7.2.	Madagascar – The French Invasion of 1895	184
7.3.	British Nile Campaigns, 1883–98	196
8.1.	The South African War	204