

Contents

List of figures and tables	vii
Chapter One: Introduction	1
Family credit	2
Growth in self-employment	3
Self-employment and income-related benefits	4
Measuring income for family credit	5
The need for research	6
Study design	7
Chapter Two: The assessment of self-employed income – a theoretical perspective	9
Definition of self-employed income	9
The technical practice of income assessment	13
Putting into operation the system of income measurement	20
Chapter Three: Definition of self-employed income	25
The study group	25
People's identification of their work status	27
Hours of work	32
Equitable treatment in 'grey areas'	34
Summary	37
Chapter Four: The technical practice of income measurement	39
Introduction	39
The character of income	39
Assessment periods	57
Computational rules	61
Summary	78
Chapter Five: Putting the system into operation	81
Introduction	81
Initiating an application	81
Professional accountancy help	91
Resolution of queries	94

Communication of income measured	96
Tribunals and the appeals process	98
Summary	100
Chapter Six: Discussion	103
Alternative strategies?	103
Applicants' identification of work status and eligibility	105
The technical rules	108
Making the system work	111
The wider context	114
Appendix One: Research methods	117
Conceptual review	117
Fieldwork	118
Appendix Two: Basic accountancy terminology and practice – explanatory notes	121
Appendix Three: Family Credit Form FCS 347	123
References	125
Index	127

List of figures and tables

Figure 2.1: Choice matrix for measuring income	19
Table 3.1: Occupations of main (or only) breadwinners	26