

Table of Contents

Prologue (introduction)

1. Types of epidemiological studies

Interlude (pause)

2. Preliminary steps of scientific research
3. Study population and sampling
4. Variables and methods of data collection
5. Interviews, self-administered questionnaires and pre-tests
6. Use of documentary sources for data collection
7. Validity of the information (data) collected
8. Reliability of the information (data) collected
9. Data analysis
10. Interpretation of findings
11. Generalization and use of findings

Epilogue (synopsis)