Contents

List of Figures .......................... XXI
List of Tables .......................... XXIV

1 Direct Marketing: The Development of a Discipline

1.1 Objectives ............................ 1
1.2 What is marketing? .................... 2
1.3 What is direct marketing? ............. 5
   1.3.1 Some common misconceptions .... 8
1.4 The benefits of direct marketing .... 10
1.5 Four cornerstones of direct marketing 12
1.6 The development of a discipline .... 14
   1.6.1 Stand-alone direct marketing .... 14
   1.6.2 Integrated direct marketing .... 15
   1.6.3 Peripheral direct marketing .... 16
1.7 Reasons for growth .................. 18
   1.7.1 Changing demographics and lifestyles 18
   1.7.2 Media fragmentation ......... 19
   1.7.3 Increasing salesforce costs .... 19
   1.7.4 Alternative distribution channels 20
   1.7.5 Changing business focus .... 20
1.8 Towards relationships not transactions 21
1.9 Summary ................................ 21
   Further reading ....................... 21
   Case study: Nike: an integrated campaign 22

2 Market Planning

2.1 Objectives ............................ 23
2.2 Introduction .......................... 24
2.3 Mission ............................... 25
2.4 Organizational objectives ............... 26
2.5 The marketing audit .................. 27
   2.5.1 PEEST factors .................. 27
   2.5.2 Market analysis ............... 28
   2.5.3 Competitor analysis .......... 29
   2.5.4 Customers ..................... 29
   2.5.5 Analysis of own organization 29
2.6 SWOT analysis .......................... 30
2.7 Setting market objectives
   2.7.1 Profits
   2.7.2 Market share
   2.7.3 Sales
   2.7.4 Customer satisfaction
   2.7.5 Not-for-profit and interest group objectives

2.8 Key strategies
   2.8.1 Overall direction
      (a) Market penetration
      (b) Product development
      (c) Market development
   2.8.2 Segmentation
   2.8.3 Positioning
   2.8.4 Branding
      (a) Corporate umbrella branding
      (b) Family umbrella branding
      (c) Range branding
   2.8.5 Summary

2.9 The marketing mix
   2.9.1 Product/service
      (a) The components of products and services
      (b) Product life cycle
      (c) Portfolio analysis
   2.9.2 Price
      (a) Setting the price
      (b) Price discrimination
   2.9.3 Place
   2.9.4 Promotion

2.10 Communications objectives
   2.10.1 Modelling communication
   2.10.2 Communications and branding
   2.10.3 Some more examples
      (a) Pepsi
      (b) Crispy Crunch
   2.10.4 Communication strategy
   2.10.5 Competitive roles and communication strategies
      (a) Market leader
      (b) Market challengers
      (c) Market followers
   2.10.6 The promotional or communications mix
      (a) Advertising
      (b) Sales promotion
      (c) Public relations
   2.10.7 People
3.11.3 Consistency theories
   (a) Balance theory
   (b) Congruity theory
   (c) Cognitive dissonance
3.11.4 Multiatribute models
   (a) ABC model
   (b) Fishbein
3.11.5 Low-involvement
3.11.6 Attitude towards the advertisement
3.12 Problem recognition, search, and evaluation
   3.12.1 Approaches to decision making
   3.12.2 Type of decisions
   3.12.3 Problem recognition
   3.12.4 Information search
   3.12.5 Amount of search
   3.12.6 Buyers tend to search more when:
   3.12.7 Novices and experts
   3.12.8 Alternative evaluation
   3.12.9 Brand or attribute?
      (a) Compensatory
      (b) Non-compensatory
      (c) Heuristics
   3.12.10 Choosing
   3.12.11 Direct marketing implications
3.13 Purchasing and post-purchase behaviour
   3.13.1 Shopping
   3.13.2 Shops
      (a) Entertainment
      (b) Shop image
      (c) Sales staff
   3.13.3 Situation effects on purchasing
   3.13.4 Brand loyalty
   3.13.5 Post-purchase behaviour
3.14 Organizational buyer behaviour
   3.14.1 Decision process
   3.14.2 Organizational buying process
      (a) Buying tasks
      (b) Buying centre
3.15 Summary
   Discussion questions
   Further reading
4 Customer Acquisition

4.1 Objectives

4.2 Introduction

4.3 Customer acquisition

4.4 Setting recruitment objectives

4.5 Market segmentation
   4.5.1 What is market segmentation?
   4.5.2 Bases for segmentation in consumer markets
      (a) Demographic variables
      (b) Geographic segmentation
      (c) Geodemographics
   4.5.3 Segmenting business markets
   4.5.4 Criteria for evaluating the viability of market segments

4.6 Customer profiling

4.7 Targeting key prospects

4.8 List selection and management

4.9 Managing the acquisition process

4.10 Key performance measures

4.11 Summary
   Discussion questions
   Further reading

5 Building a Customer Database

5.1 Objectives

5.2 Introduction

5.3 What is a database?

5.4 A simple database
   5.4.1 Storing customer data
   5.4.2 Database software

5.5 Categories of database
   5.5.1 Database functions
   5.5.2 Database architecture
      (a) Sequential files
      (b) Relational databases
      (c) Sequential versus relational
      (d) Object oriented

5.6 What information should be stored?

5.7 Database applications
   5.7.1 Customer applications
   5.7.2 Management applications
5.8 Sources of customer information

5.9 Database maintenance
   5.9.1 Managing data sources
   5.9.2 Verification/validation
   5.9.3 De-duplication
   5.9.4 Merge-purge
   5.9.5 Updating data
   5.9.6 Archiving
   5.9.7 Access/security

5.10 Data warehousing

5.11 Data mining

5.12 Legal implications
   5.12.1 Data protection
   5.12.2 Maintaining communications standards
   5.12.3 Direct Mail Services Standards Board

5.13 Summary

Further reading

6 Customer Retention—Building Customer Loyalty

6.1 Objectives

6.2 What is customer loyalty?

6.3 Why is loyalty important?

6.4 So what drives loyalty?

6.5 Lifetime value
   6.5.1 An overview
   6.5.2 A conceptual framework
   6.5.3 Calculating the LTV of individual customers
   6.5.4 The benefits of LTV analysis
      (a) Assigning acquisition allowances
      (b) Refining the targeting for customer acquisition campaigns
      (c) Setting selection criteria for customer marketing
   6.5.5 Some common mistakes
      (a) Mis-allocation of recruitment costs
      (b) Mis-allocation of overhead
   6.5.6 Calculating the LTV of discrete customer segments
   6.5.7 Why the reticence?
   6.5.8 FRAC analysis

6.6 Loyalty programmes

6.7 Card based programmes

6.8 Cross-category programmes

6.9 Measuring and benchmarking the payback
7 Testing and Research

7.1 Objectives

7.2 Introduction

7.3 Market research industry

7.4 Instinct

7.5 Types of direct marketing research
   7.5.1 Applied direct testing and research
   7.5.2 Basic direct testing and research
   7.5.3 Methodological testing and research

7.6 Purposes of direct testing and research
   7.6.1 Descriptive
   7.6.2 Exploratory
   7.6.3 Explanatory

7.7 A note on knowledge management

7.8 Testing and research plan
   7.8.1 Define the problem
   7.8.2 Select the data collection method
   7.8.3 Internet questionnaires
   7.8.4 Select the sample
      (a) Nonprobability samples
      (b) Probability samples
      (c) Sample size

7.9 Conclusion

Discussion questions
Further reading
8.4.5 Standard error
8.4.6 Range

8.5 Distributions

8.6 Hypothesis testing
   8.6.1 Type I and Type II errors

8.7 Comparisons

8.8 Tests of association

8.9 Regression

8.10 Correlation

8.11 Analysis of variance

8.12 Multivariate analysis

8.13 Exploratory factor analysis
   8.13.1 Factor 1: responsiveness
   8.13.2 Factor 2: communication
   8.13.3 Factor 3: confidence

8.14 Multiple regression

8.15 Cluster analysis

Case study: The Game Conservancy Trust
Further reading

9 Agencies and Direct Marketing Specialists

9.1 Objectives

9.2 Introduction
   9.2.1 Full service agency
   9.2.2 Creative shops
   9.2.3 Media independents
   9.2.4 New media agencies
   9.2.5 Database strategy/analysis
   9.2.6 List brokers
   9.2.7 Mailing/fulfilment houses
   9.2.8 Consultants

9.3 The direct marketing ‘product’

9.4 Personnel in agencies and direct marketing specialists
   9.4.1 Account executives
   9.4.2 Creatives
   9.4.3 Media
   9.4.4 Database management and research

9.5 Selecting agencies and direct marketing specialists

9.6 Agency briefing and presentations

9.7 Payment
   9.7.1 History
10.10.2 Factors affecting perception
10.10.3 Factors affecting motivation
(a) Appeals to fear
(b) Ehrenberg
(c) Elaboration likelihood model
10.10.4 What makes effective direct marketing?
(a) Emotion
(b) However . . .
(c) You need a combination
(d) Strategic development
(e) Find prime prospect's problems
(f) Example: Pepsi
(g) Overall
10.10.5 What has been the advice of top creatives over the years?
(a) Claude Hopkins
(b) Rosser Reeves
(c) David Ogilvy
(d) Some Ogilvy specifics
(e) Bill Bernbach
(f) Key themes
(g) Drayton Bird

10.11 Ethical considerations
10.11.1 Direct marketing
10.11.2 Specific issues
(a) Exploitation
(b) Aesthetics
(c) Dishonesty
(d) Products
10.11.3 Ethics overall

10.12 International direct marketing
10.12.1 Issues
(a) Translation errors
(b) Meaning
(c) Global versus regional versus local
(d) Regulation
(e) Attitudes to advertising

10.13 Summary

Further reading
11 Media Planning

11.1 Objectives

11.2 Introduction

11.3 Direct media strategy
   11.3.1 Framework
   11.3.2 Acquisition and retention

11.4 Media
   11.4.1 Telemarketing
      (a) Outbound
      (b) Inbound
   11.4.2 Direct mail
      (a) Acquisition
      (b) Retention
   11.4.3 Direct response TV (DRTV)
      (a) Types of DRTV
      (b) Key considerations
      (c) Buying DRTV
   11.4.4 Direct response radio
      (a) Targeting and evaluation
      (b) Buying and direct response radio
      (c) Fulfilment
   11.4.5 Press advertising
      (a) Press space
   11.4.6 Inserts
      (a) Qualitative issues in choice of publication
      (b) Cost comparisons
   11.4.7 Door-to-door
   11.4.8 Internet
      (a) Buying Internet advertising
   11.4.9 Trade fairs

11.5 Factors in choice of direct classes

11.6 Timing
   11.6.1 Sales and media patterns
   11.6.2 Launches and sales peaks
   11.6.3 Arguments for bursts
   11.6.4 Arguments for continuity
   11.6.5 Compromise
   11.6.6 A word on decay

11.7 Response functions
   11.7.1 Kinds of response function
      (a) Linear
      (b) Step-function
      (c) S-shaped response
11.8 International media
   11.8.1 Availability
   11.8.2 Media usage
   11.8.3 Timing

11.9 Summary
   Discussion questions
   Further reading
   Case study: The Indianapolis Colts

12 Budgeting
   12.1 Objectives
   12.2 Introduction
   12.3 Methods
      12.3.1 Allowable cost per sale
      12.3.2 Break-even cost per sale
      12.3.3 Percentage of sales
      12.3.4 Competitive absolute
      12.3.5 Competitive relative
      12.3.6 Objective task
      12.3.7 Response functions
         (a) Decision models
   12.4 Evidence
   12.5 Organizational influences
   12.6 Key issue: lifetime value
      12.6.1 Acquisition
      12.6.2 Retention
   12.7 Summary
      Discussion questions
      Further reading

13 E-marketing
   13.1 Objectives
   13.2 Introduction
   13.3 Changing user profiles
   13.4 Site design
   13.5 Browser features
      13.5.1 Menu bar
      13.5.2 Button bar—tool bar
      13.5.3 Uniform Resource Locator—URL
      13.5.4 Link to button bar
      13.5.5 Scroll bar
13.6 Writing on-line
13.6.1 Flow chart/site map
13.6.2 Inclusion of links
   (a) Text based links—hypertext links
   (b) Images
13.6.3 Long versus short copy
13.6.4 Bullets
13.6.5 The power of words

13.7 Marketing on-line
13.7.1 Web rings
13.7.2 Reciprocal links
13.7.3 Link exchanges
13.7.4 e-mail
13.7.5 News groups
13.7.6 Announcement sites

13.8 Search engines
13.8.1 TITLE key words
13.8.2 <META> tags
13.8.3 <ALT> image tags

13.9 Web directories

13.10 Relationship marketing on the web
   3.10.1 Identify
   3.10.2 Differentiate
   3.10.3 Interact
   3.10.4 Customize

13.11 Interactive television

13.12 eTV

13.13 Digital radio

13.14 Summary
   Discussion questions
   Further reading
   Case study: Vietnam National Administration of Tourism

14 Print, Reduction, and Fulfilment
14.1 Objectives
14.2 Introduction
14.3 Print production
   14.3.1 Estimate
14.4 Paper order
14.5 Origination
14.6 Platemaking

14.7 Proofing
  14.7.1 Wet proofs
  14.7.2 Cromalin proofs
  14.7.3 Ozalid proofs
  14.7.4 Digital proofs

14.8 Printing
  14.8.1 Letterpress
  14.8.2 Photogravure
  14.8.3 Silk screen
  14.8.4 Lithography
  14.8.5 Laser printing
  14.8.6 Digital offset

14.9 Finishing

14.10 Mailing houses

14.11 Fulfilment
  14.11.1 Overview
  14.11.2 Order receipt
  14.11.3 Telephone responses
  14.11.4 Data entry
  14.11.5 List maintenance
  14.11.6 Shipping orders
  14.11.7 Inventory
    (a) Service level and stock turn
    (b) Re-order levels
  14.11.8 Fulfilment reports
    (a) Response record
    (b) Inventory data
    (c) Returns

14.12 Summary
  Discussion questions
  Further reading

15 Towards the Future

15.1 Objectives

15.2 Introduction

15.3 Privacy issues
  15.3.1 SPAM
  15.3.2 Wider privacy issues

15.4 Broadband

15.5 Disintermediation versus cyber/meta-mediation

15.6 Channel integration
15.7 Changing demographics

15.8 Some specifics
   15.8.1 More direct marketing
   15.8.2 Place based media
   15.8.3 Infomercials
   15.8.4 Home shopping
   15.8.5 The rise and fall of telemarketing

15.9 Summary

Discussion questions
Further reading

Index
List of Figures

1.1 Typical marketing mix—fast food retailer
1.2 Tango man
1.3 Cornerstones of direct marketing
1.4 The history of direct marketing

2.1 Marketing planning framework
2.2 Sample PEEST analysis: Internet bookstore
2.3 SWOT analysis
2.4 Perceptual map
2.5 Dimensions of hotel service
2.6 Product lifecycle
2.7 General Electric: 9 cell matrix
2.8 A simple model of communication
2.9 Gevalia direct response advertising
2.10 The public relations strategic planning process
2.11 Flow chart of a visit to the theatre
2.12 GANTT chart

3.1 VALS
3.2 Lifecycles
3.3 Maslow’s Hierarchy
3.4 Weber’s Law
3.5 Basic Fishbein
3.6 Choosing
3.7 No belief stage
3.8 Summary of consumer buying
3.9 B2B buying process
3.10 Buying tasks
3.11 Buying centre

4.1 Response rates by category of customer
4.2 Direct marketing planning process
4.3 Marketing objectives
4.4 The family life cycle
4.5 Socio-economic groups
4.6 Census information
4.7 The ACORN classification system
4.8 Type 26 mature established home owning areas
4.9 Lifestyle products
4.10 Criteria for segmentation of industrial markets
4.11 Value segments
List of Tables

1.1 Direct mail expenditures by year and country 14
1.2 Relationships versus transactions 19

2.1 Industry attractiveness 44
2.2 Business strength 44

4.1 SMART objectives 125

6.1 Example LTV calculation 188
6.2 Frequent flyer benefits by membership grade 205

8.1 Monthly sales by channel 245
8.2 Expenditure category by customer gender 246
8.3 Total individuals in each category 246
8.4 Observed and expected customer numbers 247
8.5 Calculating the Chi Square statistic 248
8.6 Advertising expenditure and sales revenue 249
8.7 Regression analysis 250
8.8 Descriptive statistics 251
8.9 ANOVA 252
8.10 Factor analysis—perceived service quality provided 255
8.11 Retailer research dataset 258
8.12 Regression analysis—annual expenditure 258
8.13 Cluster analysis 265
8.14 Reasons for theatre attendance 266

11.1 Costs of airtime 342
11.2 CPT table 347
11.3 Example of a response function 353

13.1 Changes in profile of Internet user 380
13.2 Top e-commerce sites by gender 381
13.3 Top sites—January 2000 397
13.4 Major Internet search engines 398

14.1 Breakdown of customer complaints 424
Chapter 1

Direct Marketing: The Development of a Discipline

Contents

1.1 Objectives .................................................. 1
1.2 What is marketing? ........................................ 2
1.3 What is direct marketing? ............................... 5
1.4 The benefits of direct marketing ..................... 8
1.5 Four cornerstones of direct marketing ............... 10
1.6 The development of a discipline ..................... 12
1.7 Reasons for growth .................................... 14
1.8 Towards relationships not transactions .......... 17
1.9 Summary ................................................. 20

Further Reading
Nike: an integrated campaign .............................. 21

1.1 Objectives

By the end of this chapter you should be able to:

(a) define direct marketing;
(b) distinguish direct marketing from other forms of marketing;
(c) explain the benefits of direct marketing;
(d) distinguish between stand alone, integrated and peripheral direct marketing;