

CONTENTS

Notes on contributors	page ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Notes on editions and abbreviations	xv
Introduction: Roman satire	I
KIRK FREUDENBURG
Part I: Satire as literature
1 Rome's first "satirists": themes and genre in Ennius and Lucilius	33
FRANCES MUECKE
2 The restless companion: Horace, Satires 1 and 2	48
EMILY GOWERS
3 Speaking from silence: the Stoic paradoxes of Persius	62
ANDREA CUCCHIARELLI
4 The poor man's feast: Juvenal	81
VICTORIA RIMELL
5 Citation and authority in Seneca's Apocolocyntosis	95
ELLEN O'GORMAN
6 Late arrivals: Julian and Boethius	109
JOEL RELIHAN
7 Epic allusion in Roman satire	123
CATHERINE CONNORS
8 Sleeping with the enemy: satire and philosophy	146
ROLAND MAYER

9	The satiric maze: Petronius, satire, and the novel VICTORIA RIMELL	160
Part II: Satire as social discourse
10	Satire as aristocratic play THOMAS HABINEK	177
11	Satire in a ritual context FRITZ GRAF	192
12	Satire and the poet: the body as self-referential symbol ALESSANDRO BARCHIESI AND ANDREA CUCCHIARELLI	207
13	The libidinal rhetoric of satire ERIK GUNDERSON	224
Part III: Beyond Rome: satire in English letters
14	Roman satire in the sixteenth century COLIN BURROW	243
15	Alluding to satire: Rochester, Dryden, and others DAN HOOLEY	261
16	The Horatian and the Juvenalesque in English letters CHARLES MARTINDALE	284
17	The “presence” of Roman satire: modern receptions and their interpretative implications DUNCAN KENNEDY	299
Conclusion
	The turnaround: a volume retrospect on Roman satires JOHN HENDERSON	309
	Key dates for the study of Roman satire	319
	Bibliography	323
	Index	342