

Contents

List of figures	xi
List of tables	xii
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgements	xvii
PART I CONCEPTS AND CATEGORIES	1
1 Fundamental concepts in the study of change	3
The organic metaphor: the classic approach to social change	3
The system model: engendering the concept of social change	4
Clusters of changes: raising the complexity of dynamic concepts	7
The alternative model: the dynamic social field	9
Varieties of social processes: a typology	12
2 Vicissitudes of the idea of progress	24
Brief intellectual history	24
Progress defined	27
The mechanism of progress	30
The demise of the idea of progress	33
An alternative concept of progress	35
3 The temporal dimension of society: social time	41
Time as the dimension of social life	41
Time as the aspect of social change	43
Time reckoning	45
Time in consciousness and in culture	46
The functions of social time	50
Major theoretical traditions in the study of time	53
4 Modalities of historical tradition	56
The processual nature of society	56
The concept of tradition	59
The emergence and change of tradition	61

	The functions of tradition	64
	Traditionalism and anti-traditionalism	66
5	Modernity and beyond	69
	Modernity defined	69
	Aspects of modernity	71
	Modern personality	77
	Disenchantment with modernity	78
	Beyond modernity	81
6	The globalization of human society	86
	From isolation to globalization	86
	Classical accounts of globalization	88
	Recent focus: globalization of culture	91
	Images of the globalized world and the ideologies of globalism	95
PART II THREE GRAND VISIONS OF HISTORY		97
7	Classical evolutionism	99
	The first metaphor: organism and growth	99
	The founders of sociological evolutionism	101
	The common core of evolutionist theory	107
	Weaknesses of classical evolutionism	109
8	Neo-evolutionism	113
	The rebirth of evolutionism	113
	Neo-evolutionism in cultural anthropology	114
	Neo-evolutionism in sociology	118
	Neo-functionalism and the debate about differentiation	123
	The turn towards biological evolutionism	125
9	Theories of modernization, old and new	129
	The last embodiments of evolutionism	129
	The concept of modernization	131
	The mechanisms of modernization	133
	The critique of the idea of modernization	135
	Neo-modernization and neo-convergence theory	136
10	Theories of historical cycles	142
	The logic of cyclical theories	142
	Forerunners of the cyclical image	144
	Historiosophies of the rise and fall of civilizations	145
	Sociological theories of cyclical change	149
11	Historical materialism	155
	Evolutionist and Hegelian roots	155
	The Marxian image of history: three-level reconstruction	157

The action-individual level: the theory of 'species being'	162
The socio-structural level: the theory of classes	169
The world-historical level: the theory of socio-economic formation	171
Multidimensional theory of history-making	173
PART III THE ALTERNATIVE VISION: MAKING HISTORY	179
12 Against developmentalism: the modern critique	181
The refutation of 'historicism': Karl R. Popper	181
The misleading metaphor of growth: Robert Nisbet	184
'Pernicious postulates': Charles Tilly	186
'Unthinking' the nineteenth century: Immanuel Wallerstein	188
13 History as a human product: the evolving theory of agency	191
In search of agency	191
Modern theories of agency	193
The agential coefficient	200
14 The new historical sociology: concreteness and contingency	202
The ascent of historical sociology	202
The new historicism	205
The historical coefficient	210
15 Social becoming: the essence of historical change	213
Levels of social reality	213
The middle level: agency and praxis	215
Environments: nature and consciousness	219
Enter time and history	224
The becoming of social becoming	230
PART IV ASPECTS OF SOCIAL BECOMING	233
16 Ideas as historical forces	235
Intangibles in history	235
The spirit of capitalism	236
The Protestant ethos	237
Innovational personality	240
Achievement motivation	242
The predicament of the 'socialist mentality'	243
17 Normative emergence: evasions and innovations	250
The normative core of social structure	250
Institutionalized evasions of rules	251
Normative innovations	255
18 Great individuals as agents of change	259
History as a human product	259

Competing theories	263
Becoming a hero	267
Being a hero	271
Affecting history	272
19 Social movements as forces of change	274
Social movements among agents of change	274
Social movements defined	275
Social movements and modernity	279
Types of social movements	281
Internal dynamics of social movements	285
External dynamics of social movements	292
The state of social movement theories	296
20 Revolutions: the peak of social change	301
Revolution as a form of change	301
The idea of revolution: a glimpse of its history	302
The modern concept of revolution	303
The course of revolution	306
The models of revolution	308
Major theories of revolution	309
Defined ignorance in the study of revolutions	318
Bibliography	322
Index	343

List of figures

1.1	Unilinear process or consistent course	14
1.2	Multilinear process or branching alternative courses	15
1.3	Step-functions or quantum leaps	15
1.4	Cyclical process	16
1.5	Spiral process	17
1.6	Stagnation	18
1.7	Random process	18
8.1	Steward's image of the social system (source : Kaplan and Manners 1972: 47)	117
8.2	Lenski's evolutionist scheme (source : Lenski 1966: 92)	120
11.1	Socio-economic formation	172
15.1	Dimensions and levels of a social process	218
15.2	Agency and praxis in operation	219
15.3	The flow of historical process	226
15.4	Various time spans of social self-transformation	227
17.1	Sequential stages in the diffusion of innovations	256
20.1	Aspirational deprivation (source : Gurr 1970: 51)	312
20.2	Decremental deprivation (source : Gurr 1970: 47)	313
20.3	Progressive deprivation (source : Gurr 1970: 53)	313

List of tables

5.1	Weber's opposition of two types of societies	72
5.2	Parsons's 'pattern-variables'	74
7.1	Military versus industrial society	103
7.2	Mechanical versus organic solidarity	105
7.3	Gemeinschaft versus Gesellschaft	106
10.1	Sorokin's periodization of history	153
15.1	Individual and social agency	214
16.1	Authoritarian versus innovational personality	240
19.1	The typology of change	275