

CONTENTS

EDITORS' NOTES	1
Jeffrey Jensen Arnett, Nancy L. Galambos
1. What Does It Mean to Be an Adult? The Israeli Experience	5
Ofra Maysel, Miri Scharf
This chapter examines conceptions of adulthood among adolescents, emerging adults, and parents of adolescents in Israel and finds age, gender, and Israeli-U.S. differences.
2. Emerging Adulthood in Argentina	21
Alicia Facio, Fabiana Micocci
The authors describe conceptions of adulthood among Argentines in their mid-twenties and also address the question of whether a distinct period of emerging adulthood exists in Argentina.
3. Rites of Passage in Emerging Adulthood: Perspectives of Young Mormons	33
Larry J. Nelson
Rites of passage play a role in the transition to adulthood of Mormon college students.
4. Biographical Self-Definitions from Adolescence to Adulthood and Beyond	51
Heiner Meulemann
The author uses data from a German longitudinal study to examine the relations among self-identification as an adult at age thirty, self-identification with adult status at age forty-three, adult worldview at age thirty, and life success at both ages.
5. Conceptions of the Transition to Adulthood Among Emerging Adults in American Ethnic Groups	63
Jeffrey Jensen Arnett
The conceptions of adulthood among African Americans, Latinos, and Asian Americans are similar in many ways to those held by white Americans, but with a number of culturally distinctive differences.
6. Canadian Adolescents' Implicit Theories of Immaturity: What Does "Childish" Mean?	77
Nancy L. Galambos, Erin V. Barker, Lauree C. Tilton-Weaver
By focusing on conceptions of immaturity, researchers discover behaviors that Canadian adolescents believe must be left behind on the way to adulthood.

7. Culture and Conceptions of Adulthood

91

Jeffrey Jensen Arnett, Nancy L. Galambos

This chapter considers cultural similarities and differences revealed in the other chapters in this volume and looks ahead to what has yet to be explored in conceptions of the transition to adulthood.

INDEX

99