

Contents

List of Tables	ix
Preface and Acknowledgments	x
1. Introduction	1
Theory and concepts as tools	2
Theoretical outlook	3
The structure of the book	9
2. Some Concepts with Which to Start	13
The labor market: hiring labor power	14
Three aspects of labor power	15
The commodity status of labor power	17
Jobs and occupations	20
The employment contract	23
Capitalist and non-capitalist labor markets	25
The 'marketness' of labor markets	26
Capitalist labor markets	27
Modes, relations, and forces of production	28
Public sector employment	31
The issue of a state mode of production	31
Other non-capitalist sectors	33
Commodification and decommodification	35
3. Labor Market Divisions	39
Spatial divisions	40
Occupations, sectors, and segments	44
Occupational divisions	44
The significance of sector	45
Labor market segments	48
Class divisions	52
The classics	54
Two recent accounts	57
Where does this take us?	62
Gender and other divisions	64
4. Actors and Interactions	67
Employers and jobseekers	68
Processes of selection	69
Discrimination and selection	72

Employers and workers	73
The principal-agent perspective	73
Work organization and work orientation	76
Work control and reactions to it	79
Direction and the indeterminacy of jobs	80
Work control	81
Sanctions	84
Collective organizations and action	86
The formation of a workers' collective	87
Collective action and the role of unions	88
Monopolization	92
The state	93
Theoretical considerations	93
State intervention in the labor market	96
5. The Commodity Status of Labor Power	99
The functioning of the economy	100
Processes in the labor market	100
Labor power's use value	101
Avoiding employment	104
The development of self-employment	106
Family-related mechanisms	107
The role of the state	109
Social insurance	110
Labor market policy	113
Workfare	116
The state as employer	118
A complex set of mechanisms	119
6. Age of Services, Information, and Globalization	122
The expansion of the service sector	123
The service concept	124
Post-industrial theory and services	125
The age of information and knowledge	127
The concepts of information and knowledge	127
Post-industrial theory and knowledge	128
The idea of post-capitalism	132
Informational society	133
Globalization and internationalization	138
Post-industrial theory and globalization/internationalization	138
Conceptual considerations	141
Globalization, information technology, and competition	144
New times, new labor market relations?	149
Changes in the composition of jobs and jobholders	149
Changes in the balance of power	151

7. The Individual–Collective Aspect of Employment Relationships	154
De-collectivization	155
Explaining the decline in union density	157
The individualization thesis	160
The labor market as motor of individualization	163
Being 'entrepreneur of the self'	165
The individualization thesis under scrutiny	166
Historical comparisons	167
The class issue	168
Collectivistic and individualistic values	170
The question of social integration	171
The social dimension of employment relationships	173
Work as collective effort	173
Social comparisons	176
The drive toward professionalization	178
Pulling together	180
8. Labor Market Flexibility	183
The concept of labor market flexibility	184
Potential and actual adjustment	185
A conceptual scheme	187
Units of analysis	188
Types of flexibility	189
Issues of flexibility	191
Employment flexibility	191
Temporary work agencies	195
Work process flexibility	196
Work tasks	196
Work intensity	198
Working time flexibility	198
Hours worked	199
Work schedules	199
Workplace or spatial flexibility	200
Wage flexibility	201
Recruitment	201
Performance	202
Flexibility mixes and conflicting interests	202
9. Unemployment, Marginalization, and Employment Prospects	205
Unemployment and marginalization	206
Issues of unemployment and marginalization	211
The notions of 'two-third society' and 'Brazilianization'	213
The end of wage-work?	217
The proposal of a citizenship income	221
Employment prospects	225

10. Labor Market Continuity and Change
Three types of change	228
Accounting for continuity and change	231
Considering continuity	232
Considering change as to jobs and jobholders	232
Considering change in power relations	235
Too much of 'end-of' theses	236
References	238
Index	241
	256

List of Tables

Table 2.1	Some characteristics of labor market sectors	35
Table 5.1	Labor market policy related to unemployment and labor shortage	115
Table 8.1	Relationships between flexibility, inflexibility, stability, and instability	188