
List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Note on Indonesian Terms and Italicization	xv
PART ONE The Indonesian Subject	1
CHAPTER ONE Introduction	3
CHAPTER TWO Historical Temptations	35
CHAPTER THREE Dubbing Culture	58
PART TWO Opening to Gay and Lesbi Worlds	89
CHAPTER FOUR Islands of Desire	91
CHAPTER FIVE Geographies of Belonging	126
CHAPTER SIX Practices of Self, Tests of Faith	157
PART THREE Sexuality and Nation	185
CHAPTER SEVEN The Postcolonial State and Gay and Lesbi Subjectivities	187
CHAPTER EIGHT The Gay Archipelago	216
Notes	233
Works Cited	243
Index	267

FIGURES

FIGURE 1–1. An Independence Day performance.	15
FIGURE 1–2. Map of Indonesia (before East Timor’s independence).	16
FIGURE 3–1. “First in Indonesia: Lesbian Wedding, Attended by 120 Guests.”	63
FIGURE 3–2. Ways in which one sample of 35 gay Indonesians first learned of the term.	69
FIGURE 3–3. Gay men portrayed as possessed by animal lust.	73
FIGURE 4–1. The fatherly modern male.	96
FIGURE 4–2. Image accompanying article on “Lesbians and Lifestyle.”	98
FIGURE 4–3. Love should make gay and lesbi Indonesians equal to normal ones.	106
FIGURE 4–4. “A poor hetero family that does not follow Family Planning.”	120
FIGURE 4–5. “A lesbi couple who are professionals.”	121
FIGURE 4–6. “A young gay couple who, besides being happy, also can enjoy life optimally.”	122
FIGURE 5–1. Sexuality and nation intersecting.	142
FIGURE 5–2. “Kalifornia,” a bridge in downtown Surabaya.	154
FIGURE 5–3. Intersecting global, national, and local discourses.	155
FIGURE 7–1. Indonesia’s borders before the invention of the archipelago concept, as inherited from a 1939 colonial law.	192
FIGURE 7–2. Indonesia’s borders after the invention of the archipelago concept in December 1957.	192
FIGURE 7–3. The nation subsumes the ethnolocal.	194
FIGURE 7–4. The “traditional” family.	199
FIGURE 7–5. The “modern” family.	199
FIGURE 7–6. Heterosexual and ethnolocalized couples constituting the nation.	200
FIGURE 7–7. Confessional self, archipelagic self.	206
FIGURE 8–1. Outside Ngurah Rai airport, Bali.	229

TABLES

TABLE 1-1. Two tropes of globalization and sexuality.

28

TABLE 8-1. Apparent isomorphisms.

219