Contents

Foreword
Alun Munslow vii

Introduction: Sport History and Postmodernism
Murray G. Phillips 1

PART ONE: ON THEORY

1. Sport Historians: What Do We Do? How Do We Do It?
   Douglas Booth 27

2. Sport History between the Modern and Postmodern
   Brett Hutchins 55

3. A Linguistic Turn into Sport History
   Michael Oriard 75

PART TWO: ON PRACTICE

4. Partial Knowledge: Photographic Mystifications and Constructions of “The African Athlete”
   John Bale 95

5. Anecdotal Evidence: Sport, the Newspaper Press, and History
   Jeffrey Hill 117

6. Wasn't It Ironic? The Haxey Hood and the Great War
   Catriona M. Parratt 131
7. Decentering "Race" and (Re)presenting "Black" Performance in Sport History: Basketball and Jazz in American Culture, 1920–1950
   S. W. Pope

PART THREE: ON THE FUTURE

8. Beyond Traditional Sports Historiography: Toward a Historical "Holograph"
   Robert E. Rinehart

9. Contact with God, Body, and Soul: Sport History and the Radical Orthodoxy Project
   Synthia Sydnor

10. Time Gentlemen Please: The Space and Place of Gender in Sport History
    Patricia Vertinsky

    Conclusion
    Murray G. Phillips

    List of Contributors

    Index

    SUNY Series on Sport, Culture, and Social Relations