

CONTENTS

	LIST OF TABLES AND FIGURES	vii
	ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	ix
1	Introduction	1
	Part I: Industry and Art in the Modern City
2	Production and Neighborhood	21
3	Bohemia	47
	Part II: Postindustrial Bohemia
4	Grit as Glamour	73
5	Living Like an Artist	99
6	The Celebrity Neighborhood	123
	Part III: Artists as Useful Labor
7	The Neighborhood in Cultural Production	153
8	Making the Scene	179
9	The Digital Bohemia	205
	Conclusion
10	The Bohemian Ethic and the Spirit of Flexibility	235
	NOTES	247
	REFERENCES	269
	INDEX	285

LIST OF TABLES AND FIGURES

Table 2.1: Manufacturing Employment in the Chicago Region, 1947, 1982, and 1992	39
Table 3.1: Artists, Writers, and Performers in the United States, 1900–1999	66
Table 5.1: Educational Attainment in Wicker Park, 1990 and 2000	116
Table 5.2: Wicker Park Home Purchase Loans for 1993–1998 by Census Tract	117
Table 5.3: Income, House Value, and Rent in Wicker Park, 1990 and 2000	117
Table 6.1: Concentration of Selected Industries in Bucktown and Wicker Park Relative to the Chicago MSA, 2000	127
Table 7.1: General Demographics for Chicago Artists by Percentage Income from Art, 2000	159
Table 7.2: Wicker Park and the Production of Culture, 1990–2001: Selected Events	165
Figure 1.1: Phyllis’ Musical Inn	3
Figure 1.2: The Stage at Phyllis’ Musical Inn	4
Figure 1.3: William Dark Entertains Buzzbait	7
Figure 1.4: Map of Wicker Park and Chicago, 2001	10
Figure 2.1: The Brick Building	24
Figure 2.2: Milwaukee Avenue in the Wicker Park Area Circa 1900	30
Figure 4.1: The Flat Iron Building	74
Figure 4.2: Nelson Algren on Division Street	87
Figure 5.1: New Development in Wicker Park	100
Figure 6.1: Sidewalk Seating on Division Street	129
Figure 6.2: Mirai	131
Figure 6.3: Attempting to Keep “The Real World” at Bay	148
Figure 7.1: Flat Iron Studio Space	154

Figure 9.1: The Northwest (Coyote) Tower	206
Figure 9.2: Art, Entertainment, and Design in Wicker Park, 2001	208
Figure 9.3: Buzzbait's Holiday Card	210