

Contents

Introduction	9
Scope of the problem
How the development of inborn errors of metabolism necessitates the transition from paediatrics to other medical disciplines
E. Naughten.....	11
Psychological and biological models of development
P. Burgard.....	14
The multiple dimensions of transition from paediatric to adult care in inborn metabolic diseases
U. Wendel.....	20
Specialist service for children and adults with metabolic disease: training and resource allocation
J.H. Walter.....	26
Current practice throughout the world
Inborn errors of metabolism in adulthood – results of an international survey
H.W. de Valk.....	29
Who is responsible for transition of patients with inherited metabolic disease? A view from the United Kingdom
P.J. Lee.....	35
Is internal medicine ready to take over the adult patient with an inborn error of metabolism? The German experience
M. Schwarz.....	39
Learning from other disorders
Vertical networking in Paediatric Oncology: Transfer of information from specialised Paediatric Cancer Services to General Medical Care - adult institutions included
G. Calaminus.....	45
Paediatric Rheumatology: Pathways into adulthood
J.E. McDonagh.....	51
The mental health needs of young people with learning disabilities
H. Morgan.....	60

Contents

HORST-BICKEL-LECTURE 2002

Inborn Errors of Metabolism - Visions for Future Developments

Prof. Dr. E. Mayatepek..... 66

The patient's perspective

The example of glycogen storage diseases type I: Transition policies / preparation and monitoring of pregnancy

G. Twist, M. Ross..... 74

Evidence based patient information and participation of patients in medical decision making

I. Mühlhauser..... 78

Results of workshops

Designing the ideal service for adults with inborn errors of metabolism

- Internal Medicine 84

- Neuropsychology and Neurology..... 86

- Pregnancy..... 88