

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface.....	i
Table of contents	iii
Table of Abbreviations.....	ix
Introduction	1
Chapter 1
Invasion, Occupation and Administration on the occupied Territory.....	5
1.1 Invasions and Governments into exile	5
1.2 Belgium and the Militärverwaltung	6
1.2.1 The national administration on the occupied territory.....	6
1.2.2 The occupant's administration; type, organization, goal.....	8
1.2.3 Modus vivendi ; a system of administration for the occupation	10
1.3 Luxembourg and the Chef der Zivilverwaltung	13
1.3.1 The national administration on the occupied territory.....	13
1.3.2 The occupant's administration; type, organization, goal.....	16
1.3.3 Modus vivendi : a system of administration for the occupation	17
1.4 The Netherlands and the Zivilverwaltung	19
1.4.1 The national administration on the occupied territory.....	19
1.4.2 The occupant's administration; type, organization, goal.....	22
1.4.3 Modus vivendi ; a system of administration for the occupation	23
1.5 Conclusion; administration at the start of the occupation and the position of the courts.....	26
Chapter 2
The Belgian Courts during the Occupation	29
2.1 'In the Name of the King'	29
2.2 Judicial personnel and the prohibition to abandon post	30
2.3 Measures against Belgian judges of Jewish ancestry	32
2.4 Limitation of competencies and first crisis cases involving illegal possession of arms.....	35
2.5 Appointments during the occupation	39
2.6 Regulation concerning statutory age limit and removals from office	44
2.7 The Cour de cassation and suspension or arrest of judges for ex officio acts.....	47
2.8 Courts and the first applications of occupation measures	50
2.9 First judicial crisis; measures concerning economic crimes and judicial review.....	55
2.10 The courts and measures concerning forced deployment of labor	68
2.11 Second judicial crisis; measures altering the political structure and judicial review.....	70

2.12	The Cour de cassation and atrocities in detention camps	80
2.13	Crisis over interference of an SS member in court proceedings at the Arlon Tribunal	80
2.14	The Cour de cassation and the occupant's policy of hostage taking	81
2.15	Second crisis on competence to try cases involving illegal possession of firearms	84
2.16	Concluding remarks on the Belgian courts during the occupation.....	90

Chapter 3

The Luxembourg Courts during the Occupation	95
3.1 'In the Name of the People'	95
3.2 Judicial organization	96
3.3 Measures against Luxembourg judges of Jewish ancestry	100
3.4 Limitation of competencies	100
3.5 Appointments; German judges in Luxembourg courts.....	101
3.6 Ideological training	104
3.7 Regulation concerning statutory age limit.....	105
3.8 Introduction of German law into the Luxembourg legal system; judicial review?	106
3.9 Push for integration of Luxembourg courts into the German judicial system	108
3.10 The courts, the Civil administration's push for annexation and the national strike.....	114
3.11 More plans for further judicial integration into Nazi-Germany and end of occupation.....	116
3.12 Concluding remarks on the Luxembourg courts during the occupation.....	117

Chapter 4

The Netherlands Courts during the Occupation	121
4.1 'In the Name of the Queen'?	121
4.2 Courts and the first applications of occupation measures	123
4.3 Measures against Netherlands judges of Jewish ancestry	125
4.4 Limitation of competencies	131
4.5 Appointments during the occupation	134
4.6 Regulation concerning statutory age limit.....	141
4.7 Political courts, the ne-bis-in-idem principle and analogy of penal provisions	143
4.8 Establishment courts to try economic crimes and judicial review?.....	149
4.9 The courts' application of measures against Netherlands nationals of Jewish ancestry.....	158
4.10 The courts, atrocities in detention camps and removals from office	159
4.11 The courts and atrocities in detention camps continued.....	165
4.12 The courts and measures concerning forced deployment of labor	168
4.13 Moving the seat of courts.....	171
4.14 Introduction of the Führerprinzip ; resignation of Supreme Court Justice Donner.....	173

4.15	The courts and some last-minute challenges to the validity of occupation legislation.....	176
4.16	Hostage taking and execution of judges; Justice Hülsmann and Vice-President Dons.....	179
4.17	Concluding remarks on the Netherlands courts during the occupation	182

Chapter 5

	Comparing the Belgian, Luxembourg and Netherlands Courts' Attitudes toward the Occupant's 'Nazification' Measures.....	187
5.1	The Belgian, Luxembourg and Netherlands courts' positivist attitude	187
5.1.1	Preliminary remarks	187
5.1.2	Similar measures in Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.....	191
5.1.3	Measures common to Belgium and The Netherlands.....	195
5.2	Positivist attitude and organization of courts to resist execution of occupation policies.....	198
5.3	Positivism and ability to organize allowed courts to resist the occupant's policies?	201

Chapter 6

	Governments in and returning from Exile.....	203
6.1	Governments-in-exile during the occupation	203
6.2	The Belgian Government in and returning from exile	206
6.2.1	Brief history of the Belgian Government-in-exile.....	206
6.2.2	Administration in exile; legal basis	207
6.2.3	The Belgian Government returning from exile	209
6.3	The Luxembourg Government in and returning from exile	210
6.3.1	Brief history of the Luxembourg Government-in-exile	210
6.3.2	Administration in exile; legal basis	211
6.3.3	The Luxembourg Government returning from exile	212
6.4	The Netherlands Government in and returning from exile.....	214
6.4.1	Brief history of the Netherlands Government-in-exile.....	214
6.4.2	Administration in exile; legal basis.....	214
6.4.3	The Netherlands Government returning from exile	215
6.5	Conclusion; return of the Governments from exile and the position of the courts.....	218

Chapter 7

	'Denazification' of Belgian, Luxembourg and Netherlands Courts.....	221
7.1	Belgium.....	221
7.1.1	Belgian courts and judicial review of exile measures?.....	221
7.1.2	Measures abolishing occupation measures directed at the courts	226
7.1.3	Measures dealing with occupation personnel policy.....	228
7.1.4	Concluding remarks on the Belgian courts and 'denazification' measures..	232
7.2	Luxembourg.....	233
7.2.1	Luxembourg courts and judicial review of exile measures?	233

7.2.2	Measures abolishing occupation measures directed at the courts	234
7.2.3	Measures dealing with occupation personnel policy	237
7.2.4	Concluding remarks on the Luxembourg courts and ‘denazification’ measures	241
7.3	The Netherlands	241
7.3.1	Netherlands courts and judicial review of exile measures?	241
7.3.2	Measures abolishing occupation measures directed at courts	242
7.3.3	Measures dealing with occupation personnel policy	243
7.3.4	The postwar period, the Supreme Court and its occupation policy continued	253
7.3.5	The Supreme Court and judicial review of exile measures?	255
7.3.6	Solving the crisis around the Supreme Court	258
7.3.7	Concluding remarks on the Netherlands courts and ‘denazification’ measures	259
7.4	Comparing the Belgian, Luxembourg and Netherlands courts’ attitudes towards their exile Government’s ‘denazification’ measures	260
 Chapter 8
Conclusion		263
8.1	Belgian courts during the occupation and postwar period	263
8.2	Luxembourg courts during the occupation and postwar period	264
8.3	Netherlands courts during the occupation and postwar period	265
8.4	Comparing the Belgian, Luxembourg and Netherlands courts during the occupation and postwar period	266
8.5	Courts, the law and reasons not to apply law during an occupation and postwar period	267
 Chapter 9
The Postwar Era and Measures concerning Courts in case of an Enemy Occupation		271
9.1	Introduction	271
9.2	International law developments since World War Two	271
9.3	National law developments in Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands	275
9.3.1	National law developments in Belgium since World War Two	275
9.3.2	National law developments in Luxembourg since World War Two	278
9.3.3	National law developments in the Netherlands since World War Two	278
9.4	Legal framework for the courts to function during an enemy occupation? ..	282
9.4.1	National administration during an enemy occupation	282
9.4.2	Courts during an enemy occupation	284
9.4.3	The application of existing law during an enemy occupation	286
Limbourgish Summary		289
Dutch Summary		299

Annex 1: List of translations Belgium.....	309
Annex 2: List of translations Luxembourg.....	319
Annex 3: List of translations Netherlands	323
Annex 4: Overview personnel policy Belgium	337
Annex 5: Overview personnel policy Luxembourg.....	339
Annex 6: Overview personnel policy Netherlands.....	341
Bibliography	343
Internet sources.....	367
Archival Source List.....	369
Table of Legislation.....	373
Table of Cases	385
Curriculum vitae.....	391