

Table of contents

Preface	IX
Biographical information	XI
CHAPTER 1
Introduction: Research issues in cognitive linguistics June Luchjenbroers	1
Part I. Cultural models and conceptual mappings
CHAPTER 2
When does cognitive linguistics become cultural? Case studies in Tagalog voice and Shona noun classifiers Gary Palmer	13
CHAPTER 3
Purple persuasion: Deliberative rhetoric and conceptual blending Seana Coulson and Todd Oakley	47
CHAPTER 4
Depicting fictive motion in drawings Teenie Matlock	67
CHAPTER 5
Discourse, gesture, and mental spaces manoeuvres: Inside versus outside F-space June Luchjenbroers	87

Part II. Computational models and conceptual mappings

CHAPTER 6

- In search of meaning: The acquisition of semantic structures and morphological systems 109
Ping Li

CHAPTER 7

- Grammar and language production: Where do function words come from? 139
Joost Schilperoord and Arie Verhagen

CHAPTER 8

- Word recognition and sound merger 169
Paul Warren

Part III. Linguistic components and conceptual mappings

CHAPTER 9

- Verbal explication and the place of NSM semantics in cognitive linguistics 189
Cliff Goddard

CHAPTER 10

- “How do you know she’s a woman?”: Features, prototypes and category
stress in Turkish KADIN and KIZ 219
Robin Turner

CHAPTER 11

- Cross-linguistic polysemy in tactile verbs 235
Iraide Ibarretxe-Antuñano

CHAPTER 12

- How experience structures the conceptualization of causality 255
Maarten Lemmens

CHAPTER 13

- Internal state predicates in Japanese: A cognitive approach 271
Satoshi Uehara

CHAPTER 14

Figure, ground and connexity: Evidence from Xhosa narrative David Gough	293
---	-----

CHAPTER 15

Discourse organization and coherence Ming-Ming Pu	305
---	-----

Name index	325
------------	-----

Subject index	329
---------------	-----