

CONTENTS

List of maps and tables	page ix
Preface and acknowledgements	xi
List of abbreviations	xiv
INTRODUCTION	I
Alsace and the Vosges	9
The sources	17
I THE LATE MEROVINGIAN ORDER	26
The Pippinids	28
Families in the Vosges region	34
The Gundoins and Wolfoald-Gundoins	35
The Etichonids	46
2 CONQUEST AND CONTINUITY	56
The suppression of the Etichonid dukedom	57
Etichonid continuity	63
Mechanisms of continuity: Weissenburg and the Rodoins	65
The Rodoins and Wolfoald-Gundoins: a precarial kin-group	71
3 THE CAROLINGIANS AND ECCLESIASTICAL PROPERTY	76
The standardization of precaria at Herstal	80
The Carolingians and the Brevium Exempla	82
The proliferation of the precarial census	84
The evidence of the charters	85
The precarial census in the west: the evidence of the formulas	92
The Council of Estinnes and Alemannia	94
The valuation of the precarial census	98
Double or nothing: the incentives to give and pay	102
4 REACTION AND RESISTANCE	105
The reception of the precaria verbo regis	105
The precarial census at Weissenburg	109

Contents

	Opposition to the precarial census : the case of the Rodoins	115
	Vestiges of discontent	127
5	THE POLITICS OF OLD GERMAN	130
	Carolingian reform in Old High German	133
	Louis the Pious and the Old Saxon Heliand and Genesis	137
	The politicization of Old High German: Otfrid's Evangelienbuch	143
6	IMPERIAL UNITY AND REGIONAL POWER	155
	The Etichonid conundrum: local power and imperial honores	157
	Alsace and the east Frankish kingdom	165
	Alsace in the middle kingdom	169
	How Louis the German's west was won	177
	Recording Weissenburg's property from Verdun (843) to Meersen (870)	181
	Back to the future for the patrons of Weissenburg	190
	The circle of Weissenburg	202
	Conclusions	207
7	THE LATE CAROLINGIAN ORDER	209
	The domini monasterii	212
	Monasteries as seats of lordship	216
	Monasteries as heritable family property	224
8	THE TENTH-CENTURY TRANSFORMATION	227
	Family rights and monastic reform	234
	Bishops and monastic reformers	236
	Royal reform	237
	The saint as lordly patron	238
	The contingencies of reform	241
	The transformation of lay lordship	247
9	CONCLUSIONS	250
	Appendix: Records of the dispute between Rodoin and Gebahart and the monastery of Weissenburg	259
	Bibliography	262
	Index	287