

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	7
MARK SCHREIBER
Introduction	11
ALEKS SIERZ
Alternative or Mainstream?
London Fringe Theatre in Image and Reality	23
MICHAEL RAAB
The West End — an Increasingly Marginal Place?	39
UNA CHAUDHURI
Hell in the Heartland: Mapping Post-Abu Ghraib America in Sam Shepard's The God of Hell	49
KATHLEEN STARCK
Current Global Conflict and the Invasion of the Private in The Pull of Negative Gravity and When the Bulbul Stopped Singing	61
GRAHAM D. WHITE
Compelled to Appear: The Manifestation of Physical Space Before the Tribunal	73
URSULA CANTON
Guantanamo : Documenting a Real Space?	87
SUSAN BLATTÈS AND BERTRAND KOSZUL
From Page to Stage: Construction of Space in Sarah Kane's 4.48 Psychosis	101
CHRISTINA WALD
"What discoveries do we bring back from that alien terrain?" The Spatialisation of Trauma and the Exploration of the Paedophile's Mind in Bryony Lavery's Frozen	111

ALYCE VON ROTHKIRCH “Art can save culture:” Welsh Stagings of Place in Selected Works by Eddie Ladd and Ed Thomas	127
DONALD PULFORD Staging Past and Present Simultaneously: Andrew Bovell’s Holy Day (The Red Sea)	143
DANIEL MEYER-DINKGRÄFE The Spaces of Consciousness: New Possibilities for Contemporary Theatre	149
TERRY L. PRICE Shifting Place	159
NEAL HARVEY AND JOANNE TOMPKINS Virtual Reality and Negotiating Problems of Real Theatre Space	169
READE W. DORNAN Screen to Stage: Positioning the Subject in Murakami’s The Elephant Vanishes	179
MICHELENE WANDOR A Dramatic Writing Workshop: Mapping the Territories from Imagination to Page to Stage and Back Again	193
Notes on Contributors	205
Indexes	211