

Contents

Introduction xi

Part One The Creative Imagination in the Trauma of Historical Time 1

1 Metaphors and Myths of Evil in History and Literature: Projections and Reflections 3

2 The Rage for Order: Autobiographical Accounts of the Self in the Nightmare of History 27

Part Two Uneasy Armchair Reading: The Ambiguous and Implicating Worlds of Lenz's The German Lesson, Grass's Dog Years, and Johnson's Jahrestage 55

3 Siegfried Lenz's The German Lesson: Metaphors of Evil on a Narrow Ground 57

4 Günter Grass's Dog Years: The Dark Side of Utopia 82

5 To the Last Syllable of Recorded Time: The Dull, Violent World of Uwe Johnson's Jahrestage 115

Part Three Confronting and Turning Away from the Audience: Documentary Theater and Lyric Poetry 145

6 Rituals of Judgment: Hochhuth's The Deputy and Weiss's The Investigation 147

7 Towards the Point of Constriction: Nelly Sachs's "Landschaft aus Schreien" and Paul Celan's "Engführung" 183

Notes 229

Index 241