

Contents

Acknowledgements	page viii
Introduction	i
1 'Mie new London Companions for Italian and French': modern language learning in Elizabethan England	19
2 'A stranger borne / To be indenized with us, and made our owne': Samuel Daniel and the naturalisation of Italian literary forms	62
3 'Give me the ocular proof': Shakespeare's Italian language-learning habits	118
Conclusion: Seventeenth-century language learning	177
Appendix: John Wolfe's Italian publications	187
Bibliography	202
Index	219