

Contents

Introduction: The Dark Genre and Its Paradoxes Stephen Prince	1
THE SILENT AND CLASSICAL HOLLYWOOD ERAS
Shadow-Souls and Strange Adventures: Horror and the Supernatural in European Silent Film Casper Tybjerg	15
Before Sound: Universal, Silent Cinema, and the Last of the Horror-Spectaculars Ian Conrich	40
Children of the Night Carlos Clarens	58
The Horrors of War David J. Skal	70
THE MODERN ERA
Postmodern Elements of the Contemporary Horror Film Isabel Cristina Pinedo	85
Dread, Taboo, and The Thing : Toward a Social Theory of the Horror Film Stephen Prince	118
Toward an Aesthetics of Cinematic Horror Steven Jay Schneider	131

Scraping Bottom: Splatter and the Herschell Gordon Lewis Oeuvre Jonathan Crane	150
Mondo Horror: Carnivalizing the Taboo Mikita Brottman	167
Horror and Art-Dread Cynthia Freeland	189
Horror and the Holocaust: Genre Elements in Schindler's List and Psycho Caroline J. S. Picart and David A. Frank	206
Developmental Differences in Responses to Horror Joanne Cantor and Mary Beth Oliver	224
The Appeal of Horror and Suspense Mary Beth Oliver and Meghan Sanders	242
Contributors	261
Index	265