

Table of contents

Addresses	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction Teresa Fanego	1
Two types of passivization of 'V+NP+P' constructions in relation to idiomatization Minoji Akimoto	9
On the development of a friend of mine Cynthia L. Allen	23
Historical shifts in modification patterns with complex noun phrase structures: How long can you go without a verb? Douglas Biber and Victoria Clark	43
Grammaticalization versus lexicalization reconsidered: On the late use of temporal adverbs Laurel J. Brinton	67
The derivation of ornative, locative, ablative, privative and reversative verbs in English: A historical sketch Dieter Kastovsky	99
From gold-gifa to chimney sweep ? Morphological (un)markedness of Modern English agent nouns in a diachronic perspective Lucia Kornexl	111
A path to volitional modality Manfred Krug	131

Is it, stylewise or otherwise, wise to use -wise ? Domain adverbials and the history of English -wise Ursula Lenker	157
The loss of the indefinite pronoun man : Syntactic change and information structure Bettelou Los	181
The progressive in Older Scots Anneli Meurman-Solin	203
Detransitivization in the history of English from a semantic perspective Ruth Möhlig and Monika Klages	231
Morphology recycled: The Principle of Rhythmic Alternation at work in Early and Late Modern English grammatical variation Julia Schlüter	255
Name index	283
Subject index	289