

Contents

---

Acknowledgments	ix
1. Introduction: "Sheer Playfulness and Deadly Seriousness"	1
2. From The Ghost Writer to The Counterlife : Comic Incongruity and the Road to Postmodernism	17
3. Operation Shylock : The Double, the Comic, and the Quest for Identity	39
4. Sabbath's Theater : Sabbath's Fear of Death—Raunchy? Picaresque? Heroic?	59
5. American Pastoral : The Tragicomic Fall of Newark and the House of Levov	79
6. I Married a Communist : "A Grave Misfortune Replete with Farce"	101
7. The Human Stain : Comic Irony and the Lives of Coleman Silk	117
8. The Dying Animal : "Pleasure Is Our Subject"	133
9. The Plot Against America : Paranoia or Possibility?	147
10. Conclusion: "The Farcical Edge of Suffering"	163
Notes	169
Selected Bibliography	191
Index	207