

Contents

Preface	VII
1 Introduction	1
1.1 What is literature?	4
1.2 Literary criticism	10
1.3 Literary history	13
1.4 Bibliography	18
2 Poetry	21
2.1 What are poetic texts and what do we (ab)use them for?	22
2.2 Communication, speaker, situation and topic	26
2.3 Rhetorical form	30
2.4 Poetic form	40
2.4.1 Metre and rhythm	40
2.4.2 Phonological forms, stanzas and types of poems	44
2.5 Guiding questions and exercises	49
2.6 Bibliography	53
3 Narrative	55
3.1 Oral and written narratives	56
3.2 Discourse	59
3.2.1 Narrative situations	59
3.2.2 Voice and focalisation	64
3.2.3 Time	72
3.3 Story	75
3.4 Metafiction	80
3.5 Guiding questions and exercises	81
3.6 Bibliography	87
4 Drama	91
4.1 Dramatic text and theatrical performance	92
4.2 Verbal communication	95
4.3 Character and action	101
4.4 Place and time	108
4.5 Guiding questions and exercises	113

4.6	Bibliography	119
5	Theory and criticism	123
5.1	Author	128
5.1.1	Positivism	128
5.1.2	Objective hermeneutics	130
5.1.3	Psychoanalysis	130
5.2	Text and codes	135
5.2.1	New Criticism	135
5.2.2	Formalism, structuralism and semiotics	137
5.2.3	Post-structuralism and deconstructivism	140
5.3	Context	144
5.3.1	Marxism and cultural materialism	144
5.3.2	New Historicism	147
5.3.3	Feminism and gender theory	149
5.3.4	Postcolonialism and multiculturalism	150
5.4	Reader	153
5.4.1	Reader-response theory	153
5.4.2	Reception theory	154
5.5	Bibliography	156
6	Research papers, presentations and examinations	159
6.1	Academic standards	160
6.2	Getting organised	160
6.3	Writing a term paper	161
6.3.1	Defining topic, purpose and approach	161
6.3.2	Research for and use of secondary material	164
6.3.3	Writing the first draft	168
6.3.4	Revising the paper	169
6.3.5	Documentation	169
6.4	Presentation	172
6.5	Oral and written examinations	176
6.6	Bibliography	177
7	Appendix	199
7.1	Analyses	200
7.2	Index	206
7.3	Acknowledgements	216