

Table of contents

Beyond misunderstanding: Introduction Jan D. ten Thije	1
 Part I. Basic assumptions of the linguistic reconstruction of intercultural communication
Multilingual repertoires and the consequences for linguistic theory Georges Lüdi	11
The cultural apparatus: Thoughts on the relationship between language, culture, and society Jochen Rehbein	43
Notions of perspective and perspectivising in intercultural communication research Jan D. ten Thije	97
 Part II. Interactive analyses of intercultural discourse
Perspectives in conflict: An analysis of German-German conversations Grit Liebscher	155
Beyond 'misunderstandings' and 'cultural stereotypes': Analysing intercultural communication Jennifer Hartog	175
Intercultural communication in institutional counselling sessions Martina Rost-Roth	189
Ethnic and social groups and their linguistic categorization Dennis Day	217

“How are you?” “I’m hot”: An interactive analysis of small talk sequences in British-German telephone sales Claudia Bubel	245
Where do ‘we’ fit in?: Linguistic inclusion and exclusion in a virtual community Lise Fontaine	261
Communicating affect in intercultural lamentations in Caucasian Georgia Helga Kotthoff	289
Beyond competence: A multiculturalist approach to intercultural communication Shi-xu	313
Authors of Beyond Misunderstanding	331
Index	335