

Contents

List of contributors	ix
1. The origins and development of numerical cognition: a comparative analysis Alice Klein and Prentice Starkey	1
2. Aspects of counting in children's arithmetic Graham Hitch, Jill Cundick, Maeve Haughey, Rachel Pugh, and Hilary Wright	26
3. Using retelling data to study young children's word-problem-solving E. De Corte and L. Verschaffel	42
4. Understanding of arithmetical operations as models of situations Brian Greer	60
5. Strategy choices in subtraction Robert S. Siegler	81
6. The role of associative interference in learning and retrieving arithmetic facts Jamie I. D. Campbell	107
7. An associative retrieval model of arithmetic memory: how children learn to multiply David Jeffrey Graham	123
8. The internal representation of number: analogue or digital? R. R. Todd, P. J. Barber, and D. Jones	142
9. Levels of understanding and psychology: students' acquisition of statistics Philip T. Smith	157
10. Understanding algebra Lauren B. Resnick, Evelyne Cauzinille-Marmèche, and Jacques Mathieu	169
Author index	204
Subject index	207