

Table of Contents

Introduction	I
Stephen L. Wailes. The Erotic Realism of the German Dawn Song	1
Hubert Heinen. Ulrich von Liechtenstein's Sense of Genre . .	16
Peter Frenzel. Melody and Genre in German Courtly Singing in the Thirteenth Century	30
Kathleen J. Meyer. Allegory and Generic Ambiguity in Gottfried's Tristan	47
Ingeborg Henderson. Manuscript Illustrations as Generic Determinants in Wirnt von Gravenberg's Wigalois . .	59
Ernst S. Dick. Tradition and Emancipation: The Generic Aspect of Heinrich's Crône	74
Renée Scheremeta. Historical, Hagiographic Romances? Late Courtly Hybrids	93
Winder McConnell. The Passing of the Old Heroes: The Nibelungenlied , Kudrun , and the Epic Spirit . . .	103
Ruth H. Firestone. Generic Fluidity in Alpharts Tod , Dietrichs Flucht , and Die Rabenschlacht	114
Edward R. Haymes. The Genre of Late Middle High German Heroic Poetry	129
Bruce A. Beatie. St. Katherine of Alexandria in Medieval German Illustrative Cycles: A Problem beyond Genre	140
Sarah Westphal-Wihl. Quodlibets : Introduction to a Middle High German Genre	157
Thomas W. Best. Glossing the Animal Epic	175
Addresses of Contributors	188