

Contents

Dedication.....	vii
Acknowledgements	x
Introduction	1
Anna K. Kuhn and Barbara D. Wright
1. Modern Drama is Alive, or The Duck Inside the Wolf	19
Harold Lenz
2. Naturalism and Melodrama: Gerhart Hauptmann's Die Weber (The Weavers).....	37
Henry J. Schmidt
3. Expressionist Melodrama and the Search for New Forms of Expression.....	51
Hanns Steger
4. The Ghost Sonata and Strindberg's Influence on Modern European Theater.....	65
Reinhold Grimm
5. Moving Pictures: Photographs and Photographic Meaning in Karl Kraus's The Last Days of Humanity	75
Leo A. Lensing
6. Theater as the Conscience of Society: Erwin Piscator's "Interim Achievement"	101
Barbara Elling
7. The New Woman of the Twenties: Hoppla! Such is Life! and The Merry Vineyard	119
Barbara D. Wright
8. Myth, Matriarchy, Männerphantasie : Rereading Grillparzer's Libussa	139
Anna K. Kuhn

9. Johann Nestroy: The Revolution on the Stage	161
Gerhard H. Weiss
10. Arthur Schnitzler's The Way to the Pond: The Dramatic Summing Up	173
Donald G. Daviau
11. The Playwright as Ideologue: Franz Xaver Kroetz' Maria Magdalena	195
Erna Neuse and Ralph Ley
12. "Das geht net so weida": Herbert Berger's "Nasty Plays"	211
Egon Schwarz
13. Elfriede Jelinek's Burgtbeater: Language as Exorcism	225
George W. Reinhardt
Notes on Contributors	245
Index	249