

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: The Metamorphoses of Domination and the Subject of German Studies	xi
1. The Origins of Modern German Studies	1
2. Under the Aegis of Goethe: Liberal Historiography from Gervinus to Dilthey	35
3. The Science of Literature and the Steam Engine: Wilhelm Scherer and the Positivist School	54
4. Wilhelm Dilthey and Geistesgeschichte	69
5. German Studies in the Years of National Socialism	94
6. The Break in Political Continuity and the Continuity of the Disciplinary Apparatus, 1945–1968	117
7. The Dialectics of Rebellion: 1968 and Its Consequences	144
8. After 1968: Transforming the Canon, Shifting the Paradigms	159
9. Beyond the Year 2000: German Studies between New Approaches and the Resurgence of Philology	180
Notes	199
Index	247