

CONTENTS

- Introduction 1
- 1 Imperium, Misogyny, and Postmodern Parody in V. 23
- 2 Ekphrasis, Escape, and Countercultural Desire in
The Crying of Lot 49 43
- 3 Turning Around the Origin in Gravity's Rainbow:
Parody, Preterition, Paranoia, and Other Polymera 70
- 4 A Close Reading of Part 1, Episode 19, of Gravity's Rainbow 95
- 5 Docile Bodies and the Body without Organs:
Gravity's Gravity's Rainbow 133
- 6 Totality and the Repetition of Difference: Rereading the 1960s
in Vineland 207
- 7 A Vigilant Folly: Lines of Flight in Mason & Dixon 231
- Conclusion: Toward a Theory of the Counterculture 246
- Notes 255
- Works Cited 285
- Index 289