Contents

Foreword .......................... VII

Introduction .......................... 1

Heiko Hausendorf and Alfons Bora

Part I. Communicating Citizenship as Research Subject

Communicating citizenship and social positioning: theoretical concepts .......................... 23

Alfons Bora and Heiko Hausendorf

Licensing plant GMOs – A brief overview over European regulatory conditions for the deliberate release of genetically modified plants .......................... 50

Alfons Bora

Procedure and participation: A social theoretical assessment of GM licensing procedures in Ireland and the UK .......................... 61

Patrick O’Mahony and Siobhan O’Sullivan

Part II. Communicating Citizenship as a Methodological Challenge

Reconstructing social positioning in discourse: Methodological basics and their implementation from a conversation analysis perspective .......................... 85

Heiko Hausendorf and Alfons Bora

Critical Discourse Analysis and citizenship .......................... 98

Norman Fairclough, Simon Pardoe and Bronislaw Szerszynski

A critical comparison of the investigative gaze of three approaches to text analysis .......................... 124

Tracey Skillington
Communicating citizenship in verbal interaction: Principles of a speech act oriented discourse analysis

Marina Sbisà

Communicative involvement in public discourse: Considerations on an ethnographic inventory and a proposal for the analysis of modes of citizenship

Thomas Spranz-Fogasy

Part III. Communicating Citizenship in Discourse: Empirical Aspects

Opening up the public space: On the framing and re-framing of a discussion meeting about GMO field trials

Ingrid Furchner and Peter Münte

Personal reference, social categorisation and the communicative achievement of citizenship: Comments on a local public meeting on GMO field trials

Zsuzsanna Iványi, András Kertész, Kornélia Marinecz and Nóra Máté

Quotations as a vehicle for social positioning

Jana Holsanova

On doing being personal: Citizen talk as an identity-suspending device in public debates on GMOs

Henrike Padmos, Harrie Mazeland and Hedwig te Molder

Appendix

Data extracts from a local public meeting on GMO field trials

Index