

CONTENTS

Comparative Reception Studies Today

Notes on Contributors	page v
Guest Editor's Introduction	191

PART I: ESSAYS

ELS ANDRINGA 'For God's and Virginia's sake why a translation?' – Virginia Woolf's Transfer to the Low Countries	201
MARTA GOLDMANN Belated Reception: James Joyce's Works in Hungary	227
PATRICIA OLIVEIRA DA SILVA MCNEILL Affinity and Influence: The Reception of W. B. Yeats by Fernando Pessoa	249
ERNEST SCHONFIELD Mann Re-Joyces: The Dissemination of Myth in Ulysses and Joseph, Finnegans Wake and Doctor Faustus	269
MARGARET TUDEAU-CLAYTON 'Time Passes' – Virginia Woolf's Virgilian Passage to the Future Past Masterpieces: A la recherche du temps perdu and To the Lighthouse	291
NATASHA GRIGORIAN Myth in Valery Bryusov's Verse: Restoring the Missing Links with J.-M. de Heredia and Gustave Moreau	325
SIBYLLE ERLE Leaving Their Mark: Lavater, Fuseli and Blake's Imprint on Aphorisms on Man	347
DANIEL FRIED Beijing's Crypto-Victorian: Traditionalist Influences on Hu Shi's Poetic Practice	371

PART II: BOOK REVIEWS

ANDREW GIBSON: Geert Leernout and Wim Van Mierlo (eds.), The Reception of James Joyce in Europe	393
---	-----

FRANCIS LAMPART: Howard Gaskill (ed.), The Reception of Ossian in Europe	402
GERALD BÄR: 'What we wish, we easily believe' Wolf Gerhard Schmidt's opus magnum on the Reception of Ossian in German-Speaking Literature	405
Book Reviews
CHRISTOPHER THORNHILL: David S. Ferris (ed.), The Cambridge Companion to Walter Benjamin	411
WILLY MALEY: Gerard Carruthers, David Goldie and Alastair Renfrew (eds.), Beyond Scotland: New Contexts for Twentieth-Century Scottish Literature	415
RÜDIGER GÖRNER: Jane Goldman, Modernism, 1910–1945. Image to Apocalypse	419
SIMON THOMAS: Joseph Suglia, Hölderlin and Blanchot on Self-Sacrifice	422
PETER FRANCE: Pascale Casanova, The World Republic of Letters	426
NEIL CORNWELL: Nicholas Royle, The uncanny and Dorothea E. von Mücke, The Seduction of the Occult and the Rise of the Fantastic Tale	429