Contents

General introduction..... 1
Chapter 1: Nominal and referential-semantic status of proper names..... 6
1. Introduction..... 6
1.1. Proper names and proprial lemmas..... 7
1.2. The so-called pragmatic viewpoint..... 9
1.3. Proper names as a semantic-syntactic class..... 11
1.4. Radical Construction Grammar..... 13
1.5. Coseriu and Willems..... 14
1.6. Dictionary lemmas..... 15

2. The nominal status of proper names..... 17
2.1. The proper name as a nominal category..... 17
2.2. Proper names and appellatives..... 19

3. The referential and semantic status of proper names..... 20
3.1. Some basic semantic notions applied in this work..... 20
3.2. Evaluation of the main views on the referential and semantic status of proper names..... 22
3.2.1. Language philosophical views: from Mill to Kripke..... 24
3.2.1.1. John Stuart Mill..... 24
3.2.1.2. Gottlob Frege..... 27
3.2.1.3. Edmund Husserl..... 28
3.2.1.4. Bertrand Russell..... 29
3.2.1.5. Ludwig Wittgenstein and John Searle..... 30
3.2.1.6. Saul Kripke and Keith Donnellan..... 33
3.2.2. Some current linguistic theories of proper names..... 38
3.2.2.1. The maximum meaningfulness thesis..... 39
3.2.2.2. Metalinguistic theories of proper names..... 39
3.2.2.3. Cognitive linguistic theories of proper names..... 50
3.2.2.4. The set theoretic cognitivist approach..... 58
3.2.2.5. The pragmatic view..... 65
3.3. Presuppositional meanings that proper names have or can have..... 71
3.3.1. The thesis of the categorical presupposition in proper names..... 71
3.3.2. Categorical meanings as basic level concepts..... 79
3.3.3. Associative meaning pertains to the referent and to the name

form on the level of usage....81
3.3.4. Emotive meaning: augmentative and diminutive.... 83
3.3.5. Grammatical meaning.... 84

4. Towards a more precise characterization and definition of proper names and proprial lemmas.... 84
4.1. Towards a more precise characterization of proper names 84
4.1.1. Do proper names have meaning?.... 84
4.1.2. In what way do proper names refer?.... 86
4.1.3. Towards a definition and a unified account of proper names.... 86
4.1.3.1. The pragmatic component.... 87
4.1.3.2. The semantic component.... 90
4.1.3.3. The syntactic component.... 91
4.1.4. What is necessary to retrieve the referent of a proper name?.... 91
4.1.5. Do proper names always originate in a 'baptismal act'?.... 92
4.2. A more precise characterization of proprial and nonproprial lemmas....93
4.2.1. Three questions regarding the status of proprial and nonproprial lemmas in connection with proper names.... 93
4.2.2. Further arguments for the adoption of proprial lemmas.... 95
4.2.2.1. Proprial lemmas functioning as appellatives or as parts of nonproprial words.... 96
4.2.2.2. Multidenotative proprial lemmas.... 96
4.2.2.3. One referent is a part of the other.... 97
4.2.2.4. Names with a common part can be united via the adoption of a proprial lemma.... 98
4.2.2.5. Names may share a basic level term.... 99
4.2.2.6. Nonproprial lemmas found in proper names.... 99
4.2.3. Proprial lemmas and the typological theory of markedness.... 99
4.3. Diagram of a proprial lemma and its valency.... 100

5. Monoreferential appellative expressions.... 102
5.1. Monoreferential NPs with the definite article.... 103
5.2. Articleless monoreferential NPs.... 104

6. Neurolinguistic evidence for the present analysis of proper names.... 106
6.1. Semenza and Zettin (1988).... 108
6.2. Bayer (1991).... 110
6.3. Miceli, Daniele, Esposito and Magarelli (1998).... 113

6.4. Discussion 113

7. Conclusions 116

Chapter 2: Formal characteristics of proper names 119
1. Introduction 119

2. The proper name as a nominal category 120

3. Formal correlates of proprial meanings 125
3.1. Formal characteristics pertaining to the extension/intension status of proper names 125
3.1.1. Close apposition 125
3.1.1.1. Close vs. loose apposition 126
3.1.1.2. Close apposition as a criterion for proper-namehood 128
3.1.1.3. Close apposition as a criterion for the basic level presupposition in proper names 138
3.1.1.4. A cline in the tightness of the bond between proper name element and basic level element 141
3.1.2. Restrictive modifiers 143
3.1.3. Quantification 145
3.1.4. Predicate nominals 146
3.1.5. Voor 'for'-phrases 149
3.1.6. Coordination of homophonous NPs 150
3.1.7. Anaphoric relations 153
3.2. Formal features pertaining to grammatical meaning 153
3.2.1. Definiteness 154
3.2.1.1. Proper names are definite 154
3.2.1.2. The functions of the definite article with proper names 157
3.2.2. Number 159
3.2.3. Countability 161
3.2.4. Recursiveness (genericness) 163
3.2.5. Person 167
3.2.6. Case 167
3.2.7. A combination of grammatical phenomena as an indirect test for proper-namehood 167

4. Proper names between common nouns and personal pronouns 169

5. The proper name as the most prototypical nominal category 171
5.1. Proper names have the unmarked counterparts of nominal grammatical features 171
5.2. Prototypical proper names are zero coded 172

6. Constructions in which the proprial lemma is appellativized 173

7. Marked constructions in which the proprial lemma has a proprial function 176
7.1. Proper names with the indefinite article a(n) 176
7.2. Proprial lemmas in a partitive construction 179

8. Conclusions 182

Chapter 3: Typology of proper names 183
1. Introduction 183

2. Prototypical proper names 186
2.1. Personal names 187
2.1.1. Primary official personal names 189
2.1.2. Secondary official personal names 191
2.1.3. Unofficial personal names. Bynames 192
2.1.3.1. The proper name status of bynames 194
2.1.3.2. Pragmatic characterization of bynames 195
2.1.3.3. Subdivision of bynames: individual and collective bynames 196
2.1.3.4. Formal characteristics of bynames 197
2.1.3.5. Personal name combinations 197
2.2. Animal names 201
2.3. Names of hurricanes 201
2.4. Place names 202
2.4.1. The internal status of place names 202
2.4.2. A hierarchy of place name categories 204
2.4.2.1. Formal classification and hierarchy 205
2.4.2.2. Semantic classification and hierarchy 207
2.4.3. Some further implications 210
2.4.3.1. An additional continuum of number and gender 210
2.4.3.2. Towards an implicational universal 211
2.4.3.3. Language typological differences 212

2.4.4. The use of setting locative prepositions with place names..... 212
2.4.4.1. Referential vs. attributive spatial relations..... 213
2.4.4.2. Setting vs. relational spatial prepositions..... 214
2.4.4.3. Isolative vs. non-isolative spatial relations..... 216
2.4.4.4. Positional vs. directional spatial relations..... 218
2.5. Names of astronomic objects..... 218
2.6. Names of buildings, ships, etc. 220
2.7. Names of organizations and associations..... 220
2.8. The continuum in the semantic functions of the definite article... 221
2.8.1. The two functions of the definite article with proper names..... 221
2.8.2. The continuum in the semantic functions of the definite article with both common and proper nouns..... 222

3. Nonprototypical proper names..... 223
3.1. Countable proper names..... 225
3.1.1. Temporal names..... 225
3.1.1.1. Temporal names as proper names..... 225
3.1.1.2. A typology of temporal names..... 228
3.1.1.3. The setting function of temporal names. The function of temporal prepositions..... 232
3.1.2. Names of works of art, books, journals, films, etc. 233
3.1.3. Names of institutions connected with buildings..... 234
3.1.4. Trade and brand names..... 235
3.1.5. Names of currencies..... 238
3.1.6. Names of numbers and letters..... 239
3.2. Uncountable proper names..... 241
3.2.1. Names of languages..... 241
3.2.2. Names of colors..... 244
3.2.3. Names of diseases..... 245

4. Autonyms (metalinguistic names)..... 246

5. Count, mass nouns, and clauses with a restricted proprial function..... 249
5.1. Count nouns..... 249
5.2. Mass nouns..... 250
5.3. Clauses..... 251

6. Conclusions..... 253

Chapter 4: Dialinguistic aspects of Flemish personal names 256
1. Introduction 256

2. Geographical distribution of adult Flemish personal name patterns 257
2.1. Introduction 257
2.2. Taxonomy of personal name patterns in Flemish dialects 259
2.2.1. Historical and terminological preliminaries 259
2.2.2. Taxonomy of Flemish personal name patterns 260
2.2.2.1. Unary patterns 260
2.2.2.2. Binary patterns 260
2.2.2.3. Descriptive patterns on their way to becoming surnames 262
2.3. Geographical distribution of Flemish personal name patterns 262
2.4. Diachronic shift to the pattern [first name + surname] and its causes 265
2.5. Conclusions 267

3. Diachronic analysis of Flemish personal names 267
3.1. Introduction 267
3.2. Diachronic approaches 269
3.2.1. The etymological approach 269
3.2.2. Name fields 270
3.2.3. The paradigmatic/syntagmatic approach 271
3.2.4. The axiological approach 271
3.3. Diachronic classification of adult bynames and family names 271
3.3.1. Principles for the diachronic-semantic classification of bynames and family names 271
3.3.1.1. The distinction of word class vs. motivational structure 272
3.3.1.2. The paradigmatic vs. the syntagmatic parameter 274
3.3.1.3. More examples illustrating the distinction 'paradigmatic' vs. 'syntagmatic' 275
3.3.1.4. Filiation in the assignment of a name form 276
3.3.1.5. The use of tropes (metaphor, metonymy, irony) in the motivational structure of bynames 276
3.3.2. Formal correlates of the diachronic semantics of bynames 277
3.3.2.1. The paradigmatic (word) level 277
3.3.2.2. The syntagmatic (relational) level 278
3.3.3. Bynames [BNs] vs. family names [FNs] 280

3.3.4. Diachronic classification of Flemish family names and bynames..280
3.3.4.1. Origin..... 282
3.3.4.2. Characterization..... 284
3.4. Diachronic classification of juvenile byname patterns..... 287
3.4.1. Principles for the diachronic-semantic classification of juvenile bynames..... 287
3.4.2. Taxonomy of juvenile Flemish bynames..... 289
3.4.2.1. Origin..... 289
3.4.2.2. Characterization..... 290
3.4.2.3. Expressivity..... 292
3.5. Surnames of Flemish foundlings..... 295
3.5.1. Origin..... 296
3.5.1.1. Familial origin..... 296
3.5.1.2. Local origin..... 296
3.5.1.3. Temporal origin..... 297
3.5.2. Characterization..... 298
3.5.3. Purely formal names..... 299
3.6. Flemish nicknames for internet chatting..... 300
3.6.1. Psychological motivation..... 301
3.6.2. Semantic motivation..... 302
3.6.2.1. The category 'person'..... 302
3.6.2.2. The world in which the person lives..... 304
3.7. Conclusions..... 306

4. Socio-onomastic aspects of Flemish personal names..... 306
4.1. Introduction. Socio-onomastics..... 306
4.1.1. One-way traffic from society to names..... 307
4.1.2. Proper names, and especially personal names, as ideal socio-onomastic parameters..... 308
4.1.3. The name-giving system vs. the use of names..... 309
4.2. Socio-onomastic aspects of adult Flemish personal-name-giving..... 310
4.2.1. The gender parameter..... 311
4.2.1.1. At the synchronic level..... 311
4.2.1.2. At the diachronic level..... 312
4.2.2. The social class parameter..... 314
4.2.2.1. The structure [title + personal name] 314
4.2.2.2. The pattern [first name + occupation]..... 315
4.2.2.3. The metonymical combination [first name + occupational nickname]..... 315

4.2.3. Conclusions 316
4.3. Socio-onomastic characteristics of juvenile Flemish byname-giving in contrast with the adult name-giving 317
4.4. Conclusions 320

General summary and conclusions 321

Notes 326
References 342
Subject index 370