

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	v
Foreword Brigitte Émile-Zola	1
Introduction Robert Singer	5
1. Antoine's Version of La Terre : An Experiment in Naturalist Cinema Russell Cousins	15
2. Eisenstein and Zola: Naturalism, Cinema, and Mythography Tony Williams	27
3. Staging the Courtesan: Taking Zola's Nana to the Movies Heather Howard	45
4. From Theater to Cinema: Jean Renoir's Adaptation of Nana Katherine Golsan	62
5. The Eye Behind the Writing Hand: Surveillance and Adaptation in La Bête humaine Monica Filimon	69
6. "La Rançon du progrès": Naturalistic Discourse and Two Adaptations of Zola's Au Bonheur des Dames Klaus Peter Walter	89
7. Viewing Au Bonheur des Dames in the Context of Occupied France Jennifer Wolter	103
8. Thérèse Raquin in a Fog-Covered Corner Alicja Helman	117

9. Ideology and Focalization in Gervaise : The Aurenchébost/René Clément Treatment Russell Cousins	132
10. The Female Reader in Pot-Bouille and Duvivier's Cinematic Representation Elisabeth-Christine Muelsch	148
11. The Fabrication of Claude Berri's Germinal Anna Gural-Migdal	163
12. Nostalgia Is Hard to Let Go: The French Communist Party's Reception of Claude Berri's Filmic Adaptation of Germinal Laurent Marie	182
13. "At the Still Point": Framing the Naturalist Moment Robert Singer	194
Select Filmography	207
About the Contributors	211
Index	215