

CONTENTS

	Page
PREFACE	(i)
PART ONE
	The discourse of the self and the intelligibility of character 1
Introduction	2
Chapter One:	The analysis of identity in the novels and stories of John Fowles 28
Chapter Two:	The image of man and the problematic of the self in the novels and stories of John Hawkes 56
Chapter Three:	Man, time, and the epistemic status of the Subject in the works of Claude Simon 93
Conclusion	116
PART TWO
	Narrative Structure and the possibility of formalistic analysis 122
Introduction	123
Chapter Four:	Structure and interpretation in the narrative fiction of John Fowles 150
Chapter Five:	Structure as 'verbal and psychological coherence' in John Hawkes's novels 182
Chapter Six:	'Generated' structure and the self-referential text in Claude Simon's works 217
Conclusion	254
PART THREE
	Parody, pastiche, and the manipulation of the reader's expectations in self-conscious narrative fiction 258
Chapter Seven:
(i)	Introduction 259
(ii)	John Fowles: The French Lieutenant's Woman 271
(iii)	John Hawkes: The Lime Twig 285
(iv)	Claude Simon: Le Vent 304
(v)	Conclusion 318
CONCLUSION	322
NOTES	334
BIBLIOGRAPHY	357