

Contents

Preface	VII
-------------------	-----

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

i. Garden Types and Literary Modes	2
ii. Paradise, Pastoral, and the Garden	6

CHAPTER II

THE REALISTIC MODE.

THE FRENCH TRADITION: NATURE, OR THE GARDEN AS EROTIC ENCLAVE

i. The Garden of Love from Homer to the Renaissance	16
ii. Rousseauian Primitivism; Nature and the Romantic Imagination	20
iii. Stendhal's Vergy: A Garden for the Happy Few	29
iv. Courtship Among the Acacias: Balzac's Religion of Love	34
v. Flaubert: An Idyll Degraded	40

CHAPTER III

THE IDEALISTIC MODE.

THE GERMAN REACTION: CULTURE, OR THE GARDEN AS ETHICAL CONSTRUCT

i. The Happy Husbandman, Classical and Neoclassical	48
EXCURSUS. Elysium at the Doorstep: The History and Literary Reception of Landscape Gardening	53
ii. Goethean Classicism and the Traditions of Self-Cultivation and Humanity	58
iii. Immermann's "Patch of Green"	74
iv. Stifter's (Horti)Cultural Utopia	83

v. The Imagery of Repression: Ludwig's Barbered Garden	92
---	----

CHAPTER IV

THE ELEGIAC MODE.

THE ENGLISH SYNTHESIS: NATURE AND CULTURE, OR THE GARDEN AS IMAGE OF EDEN

i. Genesis and Milton	102
ii. Wordsworth's New Pastoral: Childhood and the Rural Past	104
iii. "Real, Sweet, and Pure": Charlotte Brontë's Uneasy Paradise	112
iv. Behind George Eliot's Golden Gates	120
v. Green Remnants in the City: Dickens	129

CHAPTER V

TOWARD A POETICS OF LANDSCAPE	139
---	-----

BIBLIOGRAPHY	143
------------------------	-----

INDEX	155
-----------------	-----