

Foreword by Thomas P. Adler	vii
Preface	ix
Introduction. Don Quixote as Prototype	3
Chapter One. The Art of Life: The Comic Epic Poem in Prose	11
Chapter Two. The Sorrows of Young Werther : The Structure of Sturm und Drang	39
Chapter Three. A Triad of Images: Nature as Structure in Madame Bovary	61
Chapter Four. Spatial Patterns in The Brothers Karamazov	81
Chapter Five. Dostoevsky's Crime and Punishment and Kafka's The Trial	103
Chapter Six. The Interplay of Circular and Spiral Form in Mann's The Magic Mountain	121
Chapter Seven. How the Vicocidometer Works: The Fiction of James Joyce	135
Chapter Eight. Joycean Structure in Jacob's Room and Mrs. Dalloway	169
Conclusion. The More or Less Inward Turn of Post- Renaissance Fiction	185
Bibliography	193
Index	201