

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Notes on the contributors	ix
Introduction	xi
1 PETER BROOKS	1
The idea of a psychoanalytic literary criticism
2 CHRISTINE BROOKE-ROSE	19
Id is, is Id?
3 RIVKA R. EIFERMANN	38
Interactions between textual analysis and related self-analysis
4 MIEKE BAL	57
Myth à la lettre : Freud, Mann, Genesis and Rembrandt, and the story of the son
✕ ELIZABETH WRIGHT	90
Transmission in psychoanalysis and literature: whose text is it anyway?
6 JULIA KRISTEVA	104
On the melancholic imaginary
7 SUSAN RUBIN SULEIMAN	124
Nadja, Dora, Lol V. Stein: women, madness and narrative
✕ BENNETT SIMON	152
Tragic drama and the family: the killing of children and the killing of story-telling

vi     Discourse in Psychoanalysis and Literature

9	SHLOMITH RIMMON-KENAN	176
	Narration as repetition; the case of Günter Grass's Cat and Mouse
10	DONALD P. SPENCE	188
	Narrative recursion
11	CYNTHIA CHASE	211
	'Transference' as trope and persuasion
	Index	233