

CONTENTS

FOREWARD	ix
1. APPROACH TO THE NOVELLA THROUGH ITS FORMS	1
The desert area of novella theory, with pious hopes for a better future	2
Length as essence, and how little that helps	7
A beginning tour of novella forms, and how much they might help	11
Polemic on the value of formal analysis and classification	14
2. HOW DO I KNOW I'M LISTENING TO A MESSAGE? OF MODERN APOLOGUE'S ANSWER TO ALLEGORY	18
The degree of "caring" in The Woman Who Rode Away	25
"Caring" in The Fox	31
Larger than life Spotted Horses	32
Devices of Old Man	37

- A compendium of the signals
of apologue* 39
The magnitude of apologue 51

3. THE APOLOGUE THAT
PREACHES BY EXAMPLE 54

- The exemplary downfall of
Crane's Maggie* 57
Atypicality in the making of a typical "Day" 65
An unexemplary example in James' The Pupil 72

4. LOOSER AND TIGHTER PLOTS
AND THE POCKET OF GOOD IN NOVELLA SATIRES 77

- Swiftian-Voltarian debts of
Vonnegut* 78
*Parodic plot in Mann's
Tristan* 81
Henry James, The Death of the Lion, and the plot question 83
The positive heart of satire 87
*The good in social protest novellas of Elliott, Orwell, and
Vonnegut* 92
Miss Hurter and the positive good in plotted novella satires 95
The satirist and the didact 97

5. DEGENERATIVE "TRAGEDY" IN
THE NOVELLA 100

- Degeneration in Mann's
Death in Venice* 102
Struggle against degeneration in Kafka's The Metamorphosis 105
*Situational degeneration in three
James novellas* 109

The pathos of degeneration accompanied by "education"	116
The art of degeneration in Melanctha	117
Tragic action vs. "tragical" apologue	125
6. THE SINGLE CHARACTER REVEALED TO US, WHO MAY BE REVEALED TO HIMSELF, AND WHO MAY OR MAY NOT PROFIT BY IT	128
Character revelation in Colette's Julie de Carneilhan	132
Questions with answers: The learning plot in Old Mortality and The Virgin and the Gipsy	137
The maturing of Tonio Kröger and some others	148
AFTERWORD	159
APPENDIX	161
NOTES	165
SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY	177
INDEX	185