

Contents

	Acknowledgments and Preliminary Remarks	9
	Abbreviations	11
	Introduction	15
Chapter 1	Interrupted Tragedy as a Structural Principle in Faust	19
Chapter 2	“Vorspiel auf dem Theater”: The Ironic Basis of Faust	40
Chapter 3	The Two “Study” Scenes and the Pentagram: Mephistopheles as a Philosophical Allegory	61
Chapter 4	Tragedy and Masturbation: The Audience as a Community	83
Chapter 5	Levels and Movements of Consciousness: The Audience as Individuals	112
Chapter 6	The Classical, the Romantic, and the Tragic in Faust	136

Contents

Chapter 7	The Reality of the Real: Interpreting Faust as a Poem	162
Chapter 8	Torquato Tasso and the Reconception of Faust	197
Chapter 9	The Failure of Poetry and the Degeneracy of Faust	232
Chapter 10	Language, Tradition, and Blissful Yearning	255
Chapter 11	Language, Degeneracy, and the Antipoetic	282
Chapter 12	Epilogue in Chaos on the Way to Hell: The Size of Faust	305
	Notes	331
	Index	349