

Contents

Preface	9
I. CLEAVAGE AND GROWTH
1. Transformations of the Word and Alienation	17
II. THE SEQUESTRATION OF VOICE
2. The Writer's Audience Is Always a Fiction	53
3. Media Transformation: The Talked Book	82
4. African Talking Drums and Oral Noetics	92
5. "I See What You Say": Sense Analogues for Intellect	121
III. CLOSURE AND PRINT
6. Typographic Rhapsody: Ravisius Textor, Zwinger, and Shakespeare	147
7. From Epithet to Logic: Miltonic Epic and the Closure of Existence	189
8. The Poem as a Closed Field: The Once New Criticism and the Nature of Literature	213
9. Maranatha : Death and Life in the Text of the Book	230
10. From Mimesis to Irony: Writing and Print as Integuments of Voice	272
IV. PRESENT AND FUTURE
11. Voice and the Opening of Closed Systems	305
Index	343