Contributors

Jonathan Arac is Professor of English at the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Boundary 2 editorial collective. He is author of Commissioned spirits (1979), Critical genealogies (1987) and 'Huckleberry Finn' as idol and target (1997), and he has edited five volumes of original essays, including Postmodernism and politics (1986). His contribution to this volume relates closely to his book in progress, to be published by Duke University Press, entitled Impure worlds.

Joel Black is Associate Professor of Comparative Literature at the University of Georgia. He is the author of The aesthetics of murder: a study in Romantic literature and contemporary culture (1991) and essays on De Quincey, Foucault, Pynchon and Gaddis. He is currently working on studies of contemporary film, Wilde's aesthetics and Freudian science.

Marshall Brown is Professor of English and Comparative Literature and Adjunct Professor of Music and German at the University of Washington, where he edits Modern language quarterly: a journal of literary history. He has written The shape of German Romanticism (1979), Preromanticism (1991) and Turning points: essays in the history of cultural expressions (1997), and edited La via al sublime (1987, with Giovanna Franci and Vita Fortunati), The uses of literary history (1996) and Eighteenth-century literary history: an MLQ reader (1999). His next book will be The gothic text.

Alfredo De Paz is Professor of the Methodology of Art Criticism at the University of Bologna (Italy). He has written many essays and theoretical and historical books on the art and culture of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. For many years he has been engaged in interpreting European Romanticism in a contemporary and postmodern perspective. His publications include Sociologia e critica delle arti (1980), La rivoluzione romantica (1984), Goya: arte e condizione umana (1990), Il romanticismo e la pittura: natura, simbolo, storia (1992), Europa romantica: fondamenti e paradigmi della sensibilità moderna (1994), Géricault: la febbre dell'arte e della vita (1997).
