

Contents

Introduction	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
CHAPTER 1 The Internet as a Whole	1
Why?	1
Text	2
Internet Library	4
Research Library	5
Unlikeness to Libraries	6
Out of Date Already	6
The Old Canon	7
Unlikeness to Books	8
CHAPTER 2 Searching the Internet	11
1. Browsers	11
2. Searching the Internet	17
CHAPTER 3 Kinds of Literary Websites	23
“Previously Owned” Academic Sites	24
Author Sites	26
Departments and Libraries	27
Bookstores, Publishers, and Periodicals	27
Images and Music	28
Links Pages	29
WebRings	30
Projects	30
The Breaking of Literary Hierarchies	31

CHAPTER 4	Literary Guide to the Internet: A Bibliography	33
	1. Literary Internet Resources	34
	2. Literary Periods, Groups, and Genres	44
	3. E-texts Archives	53
	4. Literary Critics, Criticism, Theories, and Theorists	56
	5. General Guides, Lists, and Indices	57
	6. Institutions	64
	7. Internet	67
CHAPTER 5	Literary Guide to the Internet: A Bibliography (Continued)	69
	8. Authors and Anonymous Works	69
CHAPTER 6	Evaluation of Sites	115
	Introduction	115
	Reminders	115
	1. Basic Standards	116
	2. Technological Standards	118
	3. Aesthetic Standards	123
	4. Descriptions and Evaluations Offered by Others	124
CHAPTER 7	The Internet and Teaching	129
	Introduction	129
	Basics: Citation and Plagiarism	130
	1. The Internet as a Resource for Teaching Ideas and Materials	131
	2. Online Texts for Teaching	134
	3. The Internet as Pedagogy	139
	4. Writing Courses and the Internet	144
CHAPTER 8	Literary Texts and Literary Careers in the Electronic Age	147
	Introduction	147
	1. Electronic Texts and Archives	147
	2. Scholarly Electronic Editions and Electronic Editing	157
	3. Digital Libraries	163
	4. Academic Careers in the Electronic Age	165
CHAPTER 9	Literature and the Internet: Theoretical and Political Considerations	169
	1. The Internet and Traditional Approaches to Literature	170
	2. The Death of the Text: Refiguring Writing	172
	3. The Birth of the User: Refiguring the Reader	179
	4. The End of Geography: Refiguring the World	181
	Works Cited	187
	Index	189