

CONTENTS

Permissions xxvii

A Cognitive processes

- 1 The psychology of music reading 3
- 2 Experimental studies of music reading: a review 27
- 3 The uses of space in music notation 43
- 4 Immediate recall of melodies 71
- 5 Cognition and real music: the psychology of music comes of age 97
- 6 Psychological structures in music: core research 1980–1990 117
- 7 Review of Language, Music, and Mind by Diana Raffman 153
- 8 Does music mean anything? 163

B Emotion and motivation

- 9 Music as a language 175
- 10 Music psychology and the composer 191
- 11 Empirical studies of emotional response to music 203
- 12 Emotional response to music: a review 215
- 13 Musical performance and emotion: issues and developments 225

C Talent and skill development

- 14 Musical expertise 243
- 15 Musical ability 265
- 16 The acquisition of musical performance expertise: deconstructing the ‘talent’ account of individual differences in musical expressivity 275
- 17 Are some children more gifted for music than others? 297

D Music in the real world

- 18 Everyday uses of music listening: a preliminary study 319
- 19 Music: where cognition and emotion meet 333
- 20 Music and worship: a psychologist’s perspective 345
- 21 Emotion, functionality, and the everyday experience of music: where does music education fit? 361
- 22 The ‘sound of music’ versus the ‘essence of music’: dilemmas for music–emotion researchers 375
- 23 Assessing music psychology research: values, priorities, and outcomes 395

Bibliography 421

Index 431