

Contents

Preface ix

1.	ASPECTS OF EARLY GEORGIAN FASHION AND TASTE	i
2.	THE USES OF ROOMS AND CHANGING SOCIAL PRACTICE, 1685-1760	11
	The Meaning of State	13
	Arrival at the House	19
	Double- and Single-storey Entrance Halls	23
	Common Parlours, Great Parlours, Dining-rooms and Great Dining-rooms	38
	The Elaboration of Drawing-rooms	52
	The Role of Saloons, Great Rooms and Galleries	58
	Library-Living-Rooms	68
3.	THE PRIMACY OF UPHOLSTERY	75
	Priorities in Upholstery	77
	Beds and Curtains	83
	Wall hangings	95
	Seat Furniture	100
	Case Covers and False Cases	105
4.	ASPECTS OF DISPLAY	107
	The Significance of Silver	109
	Aspects of Colour	113
	Qualities of Oil Gilding	122
	Light and Hospitality	129
5.	WILLIAM KENT AND ARCHITECTURAL DECORATION	135
	Kent's Approach to Architectural Decoration	137
	William Kent's Interiors at Houghton Hall	150
	The Variety of Kent's Work as a Decorator	169
	The Influence of Kent	179

6. PARADE, COMFORT AND VARIETY, 1740-60 189

An Age of English Craftsmanship and Decoration 191

The Contribution of Amateurs and Ladies 203

Planning and the Growth of Comfort 209

The Changing Balance of the Upholsterer and Cabinet-maker 212

7. THE RISE OF HISTORICAL THINKING 215

Preservation, Restoration and Alteration 217

The Enthusiasm for Portraits, Stained Glass and Tapestry 226

New Interiors in the Gothick style 230

The Antiquarian Taste for Furniture 234

8. THE ROLE OF PICTURES IN DECORATION 237

9. THE INFLUENCE OF THE ORIENT ON DECORATION 251

Chinoiserie in Dressing-rooms, Bedrooms and Drawing-rooms 253

Wallpaper, Materials and Furniture 264

10. PLANNING AND SEQUENCES OF DECORATION, 1720-60 273

Blenheim Palace 275

Erddig 281

Chicheley Hall 285

Ditchley Park 291

Kirtlington Park 296

Hagley Hall 300

Felbrigg Hall 307

Holkham 313

Notes 325

Bibliography 343

Index 351