INTRODUCTION

0.1. Preamble	1
0.2. Outline of the work	1
0.3. Data, and variety of English	3
0.4. Terminology, abbreviations and symbols	3

PART ONE: SPEECH AND SPELLING

CHAPTER ONE: Writing systems and orthography

1.1. Writing systems in general	7
1.2. Oriental writing systems	10
1.3. English: An orthography for what and for whom ?	13
1.4. The phonological basis of the English orthography	14

CHAPTER TWO: Previous descriptions of the English orthography

2.1. Pre-generative assessments	16
2.2. The generative approach, and the 'underlying' nature of the orthography	16
2.3. Synchronic reality ?	17
2.4. Non-phonemic information	19
2.5. Size of the speech units to be spelt	20
2.6. Two further descriptions: Sampson 1985 and Carney 1994	23

CHAPTER THREE: General orthographic principles for English (and related languages)

3.1. Introduction: the phonology and other factors	27
3.2. The vowel classification	29
3.3. Syllable division	32
3.4. Vowel digraphs and the marking of tenseness in general	34
3.5. The alphabetic principle, markers, and graphotactic constraints	37
3.6. Homonyms, homophones and homographs	39
3.7. Comparison with the spelling of related languages	40

CHAPTER FOUR: History, phonology, morphophonology and spelling

4.1. Introduction
4.1.1. Phonological change and orthographic conservatism	43
4.1.2. Morpheme variation	44
4.2. Main changes in the vowel system since Old English	45
4.3. Vowel weakening	46
4.4. Vowel drop since Middle English, and vowel insertion
4.4.1. Medial post-tonic syllables	48
4.4.2. Syllabic consonants	49
4.4.3. Vowel insertion	49
4.5. Consonant change	49
4.5.1. Assimilation (general)	49
4.5.2. Voice assimilation	50
4.5.3. Other cases of assimilation	50
4.5.4. Palatalisation	50
4.6. Consonant drop
4.6.1. Due to assimilation in Latin	51
4.6.2. In compounds	51
4.6.3. Other reductions of C clusters to single Cs	51
4.6.4. /x/-drop	52
4.6.5. /r/-drop	53
4.7. Speech processes	53
4.8. Morphophonology
4.8.1. V alternation
4.8.1.1. V shift and laxing in derivatives	54
4.8.1.2. Alternation between reduced and non-reduced Vs	55
4.8.1.3. /ə/-insertion morphologically conditioned	55
4.8.1.4. Other V insertion	55
4.8.2. C alternation
4.8.2.1. Assimilation and palatalisation	56
4.8.2.2. Spirantisation	56
4.8.2.3. Velar softening	56
4.8.2.4. Voice alternation	56
4.8.2.5. C drop morphologically conditioned	57
4.8.2.6. /ŋ/	57
4.8.3. Alternation involving Vs and Cs
4.8.3.1. Augments	57
4.8.3.2. The past-tense morpheme	57
4.8.3.3. The plural, third person and possessive morphemes	58
4.9. Miscellaneous influences on spelling	58
4.9.1. General	58
4.9.2. Borrowings from other languages	59
4.9.3. Words of Greek origin	59
4.9.4. Insertion of silent C letters	60
4.9.5. Pronunciation from one dialect, spelling from another	60

PART TWO: THE SPELLING OF VOWEL AND CONSONANT SOUNDS

CHAPTER FIVE: Basic spellings, marking devices, and preliminaries to following chapters	61
5.1. Vowels	61
5.2. Consonants	63
5.3. Geminated forms	64
5.4. Marking devices	66
5.4.1. Gemination	66
5.4.2. Non-gemination	67
5.4.3. Digraphs	67
5.4.4. Final mute "e"	67
5.4.5. "e" and other vowel letters, final or not	68
5.4.6. "r" and "rr"	68
5.4.7. "w"	68
5.4.8. 'Silent' letters	68
5.5. Preliminaries to following chapters
5.5.1. Rules and the notation used	70
5.5.2. Spelling criteria and their usefulness
5.5.2.1. Etymology - origins and cognates	72
5.5.2.2. Other criteria dependent on specific knowledge	72
5.5.2.3. Criteria that do not capture significant generalisations	73
CHAPTER SIX: Spelling patterns of 'Set A' vowels
6.1. Group 1: Lax vowels	74
6.1.1. Vowel letters	74
6.1.2. Consonant gemination	76
6.1.2.1. Graphotactic constraints	76
6.1.2.2. Three-letter rules	78
6.1.2.3. Between a root and a productive suffix	79
6.1.2.4. Non-lexical words	79
6.1.2.5. Syllables not followed by strong morpheme boundary	80
i. Endings	81
ii. V alternation	82
6.1.2.6. Prefixes	83
6.1.3. Final mute "e"	84
6.2. Group 2: Tense vowels	86
6.2.1. Non-morpheme-final syllables	86
6.2.2. Word-final, phonologically closed syllables	87
6.2.2.1. Syllable-division spellings	87
6.2.2.2. Digraph spellings	88
6.2.3. Final, open syllables	90
6.2.4. Summary of rules	91
6.2.5. /u:/ and its relationship with /ju:/	92

6.3. Group 3: 'Heavy' vowels	93
6.3.1. Spellings with "r"	93
6.3.1.1. /a:/	93
6.3.1.2. /ə:/	93
6.3.1.3. /ɔ:/	95
6.3.2. Gemination and syllable division	95
6.3.3. Spellings without "r"	96
6.4. Group 4: 'R-tense' vowels	98
6.4.1. Word-final	99
6.4.2. Followed by /r V/	100
6.4.3. Followed by word-final consonant sound	101
6.4.4. Followed by non-final consonant sound other than /r/	101
CHAPTER SEVEN: Spelling patterns of 'Set B' vowels
7.1. Group 1: The diphthongs /aʊ/ and /ɔ:ɪ/	102
7.2. Group 2: Rising diphthongs	103
7.3. Group 3: Triphthongs	105
7.4. Group 4: Multiphones	105
CHAPTER EIGHT: Spelling patterns of 'Set C' vowels	106
8.1. /ə/	106
8.1.1. Discussion	107
8.1.2. Description	109
8.2. Unstressed /ɪ/	114
8.2.1. Word-initial	115
8.2.2. Post-C in initial syllable	116
8.2.3. In medial syllable	117
8.2.4. Pre-C in final syllable	118
8.2.5. Word-final	119
CHAPTER NINE: Spelling patterns of consonants	120
9.1. Group 1: The simplest sounds to spell with single letters: p b f v m n l r h	120
9.2. Group 2: The simplest sounds to spell with C digraphs: θ ð ŋ	123
9.3. Group 3: Glides: w j	124
9.4. Group 4: Palato-alveolars: ʃ ʒ ʧ ʤ	125
9.5. Group 5: Velar plosives: k g	130
9.6. Group 6: Phonemes that are often morphemes: t d s z	132

APPENDIX: ALL SPELLINGS OF ALL SOUNDS

EXAMPLE LISTS

Explanatory notes 142

SET A vowels

A.1. Group 1: Lax vowels	notes	145
	æ	146
	e	148
	ɪ	150
	o	152
	ʌ	154
	ʊ	156
A.2. Group 2: Tense vowels	notes	158
	eɪ	159
	i:	162
	aɪ	166
	əʊ	168
	ju:	171
	u:	172
A.3. Group 3: 'Heavy' vowels	notes	175
	a:	175
	ə:	177
	ɔ:	180
A.4. Group 4 : 'R-tense' vowels	notes	183
	eə	183
	ɪə	185
	aɪə	186
	jʊə	188
	ʊə	189

SET B vowels	notes	190
B.1. Group 1: The diphthongs /aʊ/ and /ɔɪ/	aʊ	190
	ɔɪ	191
B.2. Group 2: Rising diphthongs and glides	wa:	193
	w	193
	j	193
B.3. Group 3: Triphthongs		194
B.4. Group 4: 'Multiphones'		195
SET C vowels	notes	197
C.1. ə		197
C.2. unstressed ɪ		208
CONSONANTS	groups:	214
