

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	ix
INTRODUCTION	1
1. Facing the Future	22
Three Descriptions of the French Revolution	22
The Terror and Its Causes	34
Balanced Government and the English Constitution	41
England's Future in a French Context	52
Sieyès and His Contemporaries	67
True Monarchy, or the Idea of a Modern Republic	75
2. Montesquieu and the Idea of Monarchy	95
The Troglodytes and the Morality of Monarchy	95
Law's System, the Abbé de Saint-Pierre, and the Grand Design	108
From The Persian Letters to The Spirit of Laws	121
The Inheritance of Property and the Inheritance of Thrones	131
The Problem of Sovereignty and the Nature of Monarchy	149
Jansenism	153
Fénelon and His Legacy	159
Trade, the System of Ranks, and the Alternative to Public Credit	166
3. Morality and Politics in a Divided World	173
Montesquieu's Legacy	173
François Véron de Forbonnais and the Limits of Trade	179
Physiocracy, or The Natural and Essential Order of Political Societies	189
From Friendship to Mankind to Political Economy	199
Rousseau and Physiocracy	222
Rousseau and Mably	239
4. Industry and Representative Government	254
Agriculture, Industry, and Inequality	254
Helvétius	266
Turgot	281
Chastellux	290
Jacques Necker and Burke's Paradox	302
Joseph Fauchet and Pierre-Paul Gudin de la Brenellerie	311
Pierre-Louis Roederer	322
Jean-Baptiste Say	334

CONCLUSION	349
BIBLIOGRAPHY	373
INDEX	403