Preface xiii

Chapter 1

Introduction 1

Quantitative Versus Qualitative Schools of Thought	2
Use of Triangulation in Research Methodology	5
Qualitative Strategies: Defining an Orientation	8
From a Symbolic Interactionist Perspective	9
Why Use Qualitative Methods?	13
A Plan of Presentation	15
References	16

Chapter 2

Designing Qualitative Research 19

Theory and Concepts	19
Ideas and Theory	21
Reviewing the Literature	25
Evaluating Web Sites	27
The Two-Card Method	30
Theory, Reality, and the Social World	33
Framing Research Problems	34
Operationalization and Conceptualization	35

Designing Projects 38
 Setting and Population Appropriateness 39
 Sampling Strategies 41
Data Collection and Organization 45
Data Storage, Retrieval, and Analysis 46
Dissemination 48
Trying It Out 49
References 49

Chapter 3

Ethical Issues 53

Research Ethics in Historical Perspective 54
From Guidelines to Law: Regulations on the Research Process 60
Institutional Review Boards (IRBs) 61
 IRBs and Their Duties 62
 Clarifying the Role of IRBs 65
 Active Versus Passive Consent 67
 *Active Versus Passive Consent in Internet
Research* 69
 Membership Criteria for IRBs 70
Ethical Codes 71
Some Common Ethical Concerns in Behavioral
Research 71
New Areas for Ethical Concern: Cyberspace 73
 Protection for Children 74
 Debriefing the Subjects 74
Physical and Ethical Dangers in Covert Research 75
Informed Consent and Implied Consent 78
Confidentiality and Anonymity 79
 Keeping Identifying Records 79
 Strategies for Safeguarding Confidentiality 80

Securing the Data	81
Objectivity and Careful Research Design	82
Trying It Out	83
References	84

Chapter 4

A Dramaturgical Look at Interviewing 89

Dramaturgy and Interviewing	90
Types of Interviews	92
The Standardized Interview	92
The Unstandardized Interview	94
The Semistandardized Interview	95
The Interview Schedule	97
Schedule Development	99
Question Order, Content, and Style	99
Communicating Effectively	102
A Few Common Problems in Question Formulation	103
Affectively Worded Questions	104
The Double-Barreled Question	104
Complex Questions	105
Question Sequencing	105
Pretesting the Schedule	105
Long Versus Short Interviews	106
Telephone Interviews	108
Advantages of the Telephone Interview	109
Disadvantages of the Telephone Interview	110
Computer-Assisted Interviewing	110
Computer Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI)	110
Computer Assisted Personal Interviewing (CAPI)	111
Web-Based In-Depth Interviews	112
Conducting an Interview: A Natural or an Unnatural Communication?	114

The Dramaturgical Interview	115
Interviewer Roles and Rapport	116
The Role of the Interviewee	118
The Interviewer as a Self-Conscious Performer	119
Social Interpretations and the Interviewer	120
The Interviewer's Repertoire	123
Interviewers' Attitudes and Persuading a Subject	125
Developing an Interviewer Repertoire	127
Techniques to Get New Researchers Started	127
Taking the Show on the Road	129
The Ten Commandments of Interviewing	129
Know Your Audience	131
Curtain Calls	132
Analyzing Data Obtained from the Dramaturgical Interview	133
Beginning an Analysis	134
Systematic Filing Systems	134
Short-Answer Sheets	136
Analysis Procedures: A Concluding Remark	136
Trying It Out	137
Notes	138
References	139

Chapter 5

Focus Group Interviewing 144

What Are Focus Group Interviews?	144
The Evolution of Focus Group Interviews	146
Advantages and Disadvantages of Focus Group Interviewing	148
Focus Group Interviewing and Face-to-Face Interviewing	149
Focus Group Interviewing and Participant Observation	151
Focus Group Interviewing and Unobtrusive Measures	152
Facilitating Focus Group Dynamics: How Focus Groups Work	155

The Moderator's Guide	155
Introduction and Introductory Activities	156
Statement of the Basic Rules or Guidelines for the Interview	156
Short Question-and-Answer Discussions	157
Special Activities or Exercises	157
Guidance for Dealing with Sensitive Issues	157
Basic Ingredients in Focus Groups	158
Analyzing Focus Group Data	162
Confidentiality and Focus Group Interviews	163
Recent Trends in Focus Groups: Online Focus Groups	165
Conclusion	166
Trying It Out	167
Notes	167
References	168

Chapter 6

Ethnographic Field Strategies 171

Accessing a Field Setting: Getting in	175
Reflectivity and Ethnography	178
The Attitude of the Ethnographer	179
The Researcher's Voice	179
Gaining Entry	184
Becoming Invisible	186
Dangers of Invisibility	188
Other Dangers During Ethnographic Research	190
Watching, Listening, and Learning	192
How to Learn: What to Watch and Listen For	194
Field Notes	197
Computers and Ethnography	204
Analyzing Ethnographic Data	205

Other Analysis Strategies: Typologies, Sociograms, and Metaphors 207
 Typologies 207
 Sociograms 208
 Metaphors 213
Disengaging: Getting Out 213
Trying It Out 215
References 215

Chapter 7

Action Research 222

The Basics of Action Research 224
Identifying the Research Question(s) 226
Gathering the Information to Answer the Question(s) 227
Analyzing and Interpreting the Information 227
 *Procedures for Using Interview and Ethnographic
 Data* 227
 *Guiding Questions of Analysis: Why, What, How, Who, Where,
 When?* 228
 Descriptive Accounts and Reports 228
Sharing the Results with the Participants 229
The Action Researcher's Role 230
Types of Action Research 230
 Technical/Scientific/Collaborative Mode 231
 *A Practical/Mutual Collaborative/Deliberate
 Mode* 231
 *Emancipating/Enhancing/Critical Science
 Mode* 232
Photovoice and Action Research 233
 The Goal in Photovoice 234
Action Research: A Reiteration 235
Trying It Out 236
References 237

Chapter 8

Unobtrusive Measures in Research 239

Archival Strategies	241
Public Archives	242
Private Archives: Solicited and Unsolicited Documents	252
A Last Remark about Archival Records	256
Physical Erosion and Accretion: Human Traces as Data Sources	256
Erosion Measures	256
Accretion Measures	257
Some Final Remarks about Physical Traces	258
Trying It Out	259
References	260

Chapter 9

Historiography and Oral Traditions 264

What is Historical Research?	264
Life Histories and Historiography	268
What are the Sources of Data of Historical Researchers?	268
Doing Historiography: Tracing Written History as Data	269
External Criticism	271
Internal Criticism	274
What are Oral Histories?	275
Trying It Out	279
References	279

Chapter 10

Case Studies 283

The Nature of Case Studies	283
Theory and Case Studies	284

The Individual Case Study	286
The Use of Interview Data	288
The Use of Personal Documents	289
Intrinsic, Instrumental, and Collective Case Studies	291
Case Study Design Types	292
Exploratory Case Studies	292
Explanatory Case Studies	292
Descriptive Case Studies	293
The Scientific Benefit of Case Studies	294
Objectivity and the Case Method	294
Generalizability	295
Case Studies of Organizations	296
Case Studies of Communities	297
Data Collection for Community Case Studies	298
Community Groups and Interests	298
Trying It Out	300
References	300

Chapter 11

An Introduction to Content Analysis 303

What is Content Analysis	303
Analysis of Qualitative Data	304
Interpretative Approaches	304
Social Anthropological Approaches	305
Collaborative Social Research Approaches	305
Content Analysis as a Technique	306
Content Analysis: Quantitative or Qualitative?	307
Manifest versus Latent Content Analysis	308
Blending Manifest and Latent Content Analysis Strategies	309
Communication Components	309
What to Count: Levels and Units of Analysis	310

Category Development: Building Grounded Theory	310
What to Count	312
Combinations of Elements	313
Units and Categories	314
Classes and Categories	316
Open Coding	317
Coding Frames	320
A Few More Words on Analytic Induction	322
Interrogative Hypothesis Testing	323
Stages in the Content Analysis Process	325
Strengths and Weaknesses of the Content Analysis Process	327
Computers and Qualitative Analysis	329
Word Processors	331
Text Retrievers	331
Textbase Managers	331
Code-and-Retrieve Programs	331
Code-Based Theory Builders	332
Conceptual Network Builders	332
Qualitative Research at the Speed of Light	334
Trying It Out	335
References	336

Chapter 12

Writing Research Papers: Sorting the Noodles from the Soup 340

Plagiarism: What It Is, Why It's Bad, and How to Avoid It 341

Why Plagiarism Occurs 341

How to Avoid Plagiarism 342

Identifying the Purpose of the Writing: Arranging the Noodles 344

Delineating a Supportive Structure: Visual Signals for the Reader 345

The Title 347

The Abstract 348

The Introduction 349

Literature Review 350

Methodology 351

Findings or Results 353

Discussion/Conclusion 354

References, Notes, and Appendices 354

Presenting Research Material 357

Disseminating the Research: Professional Meetings and Publications 357

A Word About the Content of Papers and Articles 361

Write It, Rewrite It, Then Write It Again! 361

A Final Note 363
