

CONTENTS

1. The Meeting Between Phenomenology and Psychology	1
Man Cheung Chung and Peter D. Ashworth
Initial Contact Between Phenomenology and Psychology	2
The Question of Phenomenological Psychological Method	5
Husserl's Transcendental Subjectivity	5
Heidegger's Critique and The Existentialist Turn	6
Boss and Daseinsanalysis and Contemporary Existentialists in Psychology	8
A Long Story	9
References	9
2. Introduction to the Place of Phenomenological Thinking in the History of Psychology	11
Peter D. Ashworth
The early Experimental Psychology of Experience	12
Early Twentieth Century Theoretical Ferment and the Emergence of Behaviorism	14
Husserl's Phenomenology	17
The Existentialist Critique of Husserl's Phenomenology	24
The Legacy of Husserl for Psychology	28
The Early Confluence with Gestalt Psychology	29
American "Psychological Phenomenology"	32
Contemporary Phenomenological Psychology	36
Conclusion	41

Note	42
References	42
3. The Value of Phenomenology for Psychology	45
Amedeo Giorgi
Introduction	45
The Phenomenological Approach to Consciousness	46
Psychology's Approach to Consciousness in the Founding Years	54
The Approach to Consciousness of the Functional School	60
James's Approach to the Phenomenon of Consciousness	61
The Approach to Consciousness on the Part of Act Psychology	63
Conclusion	66
Note	67
References	67
4. Can an Empirical Psychology Be Drawn from Husserl's Phenomenology?	69
Barbro Giorgi
Introduction	69
The Specific Procedures of the Method	71
How Phenomenological Concepts Guide the Research	73
Conclusion	87
References	87
5. Did Husserl Change His Mind?	89
Karin Dahlberg
Introduction	89
Phenomenology as "Going Back to Things Themselves"	90
Transcendental Phenomenology	91
Intentionality	93
Self Reflection and Self Awareness	94
Conclusions	96
Note	100
References	100
6. Husserl against Heidegger against Husserl	101
Paul S. MacDonald
Introduction	101
Five Foci of Critique	110

Summary	120
References	121
7. The Influence of Heidegger on Sartre's Existential Psychoanalysis	123
Miles Groth
Preliminaries	123
Sartre's Existential Psychoanalysis	124
Heidegger's Influence on Sartre's Existential Psychoanalysis	130
Heidegger and Sartre's Existential Psychoanalysis	134
Epilogue: Change	136
Notes	137
References	143
8. Medard Boss' Phenomenologically Based Psychopathology	147
F. A. Jenner
Personal Background	147
Historical Setting and Training of Medard Boss	149
Presumptions	154
Sigmund Freud's Impact on Medard Boss	155
Summary	167
References	167
9. Contemporary Existentialist Tendencies in Psychology	169
Stuart Hanscomb
How Existentialism and Psychology Meet	169
Methodology	188
Notes	191
References	193
10. Conclusion: Phenomenology and Psychological Science	197
Peter D. Ashworth and Man Cheung Chung
References	205
Name Index	207
Subject Index	213