

CONTENTS

- xi Foreword Larry McCaffery
- xxiii Acknowledgments
- 1 Introduction: Anatomies of Dependence

Part One Theory

- 9 Chapter 1. Mikadophilia, or The Fate of Cyborgian Identity in the Postmillenarian Milieu
- 38 Chapter 2. Comparative Metafiction: Somewhere between Ideology and Rhetoric

Part Two History

- 63 Chapter 3. Virus as Metaphor: A Postorientalist Reading of the Future War Novels of the 1890s
- 71 Chapter 4. Deep North Gothic: A Postoccidental Reading of Hearn, Yanagita, and Akutagawa
- 86 Chapter 5. Which Way to Coincidence?: A Queer Reading of J. G. Ballard's Crash
- 93 Chapter 6. A Manifesto for Gynoids: A Cyborg Feminist Reading of Richard Calder

Part Three Aesthetics

- 105 Chapter 7. Semiotic Ghost Stories: The Japanese Reflection of Mirrorshades
- 112 Chapter 8. Junk Art City, or How Gibson Meets Thomasson
in Virtual Light

- 123 Chapter 9. Pax Exotica: A New Exoticist Perspective on Audrey, Anna-chan, and Idoru

Part Four Performance

- 137 Chapter 10. Magic Realist Tokyo: Poe's "The Man That Was Used Up" as a Subtext for Bartók-Terayama's Magical Musical The Miraculous Mandarin

Part Five Representation

- 151 Chapter 11. Full Metal Apache: Shinya Tsukamoto's Tetsuo Diptych, or The Impact of American Narratives on the Japanese Representation of Cyborgian Identity
- 171 Conclusion—Waiting for Godzilla: Toward a Globalist Theme Park
- 185 Appendix 1: Toward the Frontiers of "Fiction": From Metafiction and Cyberpunk, through Avant-Pop—The Correspondence between Takayuki Tatsumi and Larry McCaffery
- 197 Appendix 2: A Dialogue with the Nanofash Pygmalion: An Interview with Richard Calder
- 205 Notes
- 223 Works Cited
- 237 Index