Contents

Foreword

Introduction
REGULA VALÉRIE BURRI AND JOSEPH DUMIT

PART I
Social and cultural studies of biomedicine

1 Medicalizing culture(s) or culturalizing medicine(s)
STEFAN BECK

2 Metaphors of medicine and the culture of healing: Historical perspectives
JAKOB TANNER

3 Medicine as practice and culture: The analysis of border regimes and the necessity of a hermeneutics of physical bodies
GESALINDEMANN

PART II
Epistemic practices and material culture(s)

4 The future is now: Locating biomarkers for dementia
MARGARET LOCK

5 Embodied action, enacted bodies: The example of hypoglycaemia
ANNEMARIE MOL AND JOHN LAW

vii

1

17

35

47

59

61

87
Contents

6 Sociotechnical anatomy: Technology, space, and body in the MRI unit
REGULA VALÉRIE BURRI

7 Risk and safety in the operating theater: An ethnographic study of sociotechnical practices
CORNELIUS SCHUBERT

PART III
Biomedical knowledge in context

8 Genomic susceptibility as an emergent form of life? Genetic testing, identity, and the remit of medicine
NIKOLAS ROSE

9 Susceptible individuals and risky rights: Dimensions of genetic responsibility
THOMAS LEMKE

10 “Pop genes”: An investigation of “the gene” in popular parlance
BARBARA DU DEN AND SILJA SAMERSKI

11 Genetics and its publics: Crafting genetic literacy and identity in the early twenty-first century
KAREN-SUE TAUSSIG

12 Constructing the digital patient: Patient organizations and the development of health websites
NELLY OUDSHOORN AND ANDRÉ SOMERS

Epilogue: Indeterminate lives, demands, relations: Emergent bioscapes
JOSEPH DUMIT AND REGULA VALÉRIE BURRI

Contributors

Index