

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Abbreviations	x
Introduction	1

Part I: The Pre-Conceptual Modality

1. The Hands of Dagon: Epidemic Anomalies in I Samuel 5–6	16
2. The Fierce Onslaught of Fate: Greco-Roman Pre-Conceptuality	27
3. The Sins of the Nation: Early Christian Pre-Conceptuality	38

Part II: The Observational Modality

4. Set Down Its Nature: Eyewitness Reporting in the Age of Pericles	47
5. The Province of Human Reasoning: Eyewitness Reporting and the Plague of Justinian	55
6. The Vast Estates: The Decameron of Giovanni Boccaccio	60

Part III: The Investigative Modality

7. Persons of Thought: Nathaniel Hodges and the London Plague of 1664–1665	71
8. The Topography of Inference	78
9. From Etiology to Synergy	103

Part IV: Eyewitness Reporting, Language, and Imaginative Writing

10. The Democracy of Affliction: Modern Eyewitness Reporting	153
--	-----

11. The Language of Reason: Plague Extrapolations in Modern Fiction	172
12. A Just and Proper Tale: Figurative Language and Epidemiological Discourse	198
13. A Tangible Something: The Yellow Fever Construct	221
14. The Dynamics of Fear and the Mechanisms of Resistance	236
Works Cited	241
Index	251